B. H. BRADLEE DEAD

Long Connected with Boston Courts

U. S. Commissioner--His Home in Newton Centre

Benjamin H. Bradlee, late United States commissioner, died Sunday at the age of 49 years at his home, 91 Parker street, Newton Centre.

The funeral took place yesterday at 12:30 at the church of the Good Shepherd, Cortes street, Boston, and was attended by many former business acquaintances and friends. Delegations were present from several masonic and other organizations of which he had long been a member.

Commissioner Bradlee was a native of Boston. His father was David H. Bradlee, adjutant of the 13th Mass. regt. in the civil war. The son was educated in the Brimmer grammar and English high schools. In 1874 he entered the office of the clerk of the circuit court as a boy under Clerk John G. Stetson, now clerk of the court of appeals.

He continued in this office until 1890, when he went into the office of the United States District Court, adjoining. Here he stayed for 15 months, re-entering under Clerk Trowbridge in September, 1892.

Here he has been ever since, gradually rising in position until he was appointed to the office which he held up to the time of his death.

In 1903 he was appointed United States commissioner. The appointment was made by Judge Francis Lowell, and was approved by Acting Attorney-General Henry M. Hoyt.

Commissioner Bradlee was a member of the Masonic order, and for six years was a member of the State militia, resigning when he married. He has a large number of friends in this city, particularly in Newton Centre. He is survived by a widow and one daughter.

Give all a Fair Show

The Pittsfield Eagle brings forward the right idea in a short editorial headed "A crusade against Draper." The Eagle announces that the publicity being given the Drapers and Hopedale at the present time is probably prompted by the misrepresentations of the Drapers and their shops by a number of articles that have appeared in a Boston newspaper, the object of which was apparently to prejudice the future political chances of Lieutenant Governor Draper. One of the articles states that employees in the Draper shops who get but $9 a week are obliged to pay the company $3.75 a week for house rent, but this is absolutely without foundation. Only men who work at a trade and get from $2.50 a day upwards are allowed to pay that sum for any of the company houses. It is further stated that employees of the Drapers have to buy coal and ice of the Draper concern, but this report also is without foundation. The Eagle declares that whatever may be the claims of the lieutenant governor for promotion to the governorship, it is no more than fair that the public be made acquainted with the exact social and business conditions at Hopedale, and all fair minded people will agree with the paper in this statement.—North Adams Herald.

NEWTON IN SECOND PLACE

Nonantum Tub Captured Substantial Prize at Waltham

The Nonantum tub of this city, which won the first prize of $300 in the recent old home week muster on Boston Common, took second place in the Labor day play at Central Park, Waltham, the Alabama Coon tub of Stoughton sending a stream five feet farther than the Newton machine.

The Nonantum tub captured a prize of $100, but $75 less than that offered for first place. A large number from this city attended the play, which was witnessed by about 3000 persons.

There were 15 tubs in the play, and the best stream was only 188 ft 9 7-8 in. owing to a strong cross wind which prevailed the greater part of the day. The muster was held under the auspices of the Waltham muster association.

The tubs finished in the following order.

Alabama Coon, Stoughton; Nonantum, Newton; Protector, Brockton; Star of Jamaica, Jamaica Plain; Gen. Taylor, Everett; Hancock, Brockton; Red Jackets, Cambridge; Watch City, Waltham; Phoenix, Marblehead; City of Somerville, Somerville; Enterprise, Brockton; Eureka, Arlington; Fisherman, Gloucester; Liberty, Chelsea; Tremont, Roxbury.

The officials of the play were Chief G. L. Johnson, Waltham; W. H. Hathaway, Hyde Park; G. H. Blatchford, Cambridge; W. E. Mayberry, Braintree, and David Adamson, East Boston.

—Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine at.

ACTIVITY IN GOLF

Brae-Burn Plans Invitation Tournament for Next Week

Evidence of the activity in golf of the Brae-Burn C. C. of West Newton is given in the program for the invitation tournament of the club to be held Sept. 10 to 14. A feature of the meeting will be a four ball event, best ball to count, in which amateurs may play with a professional. The competition will be a handicap. The full program at Brae-Burn follows:

Open to members and associates of the United States golf association. Prizes for the first, second, third and fourth 16s. Gold medal for the lowest qualifying score in the scratch competition. Silver medals will be given to the runner up of each of the four. Tournament to start at 8 o'clock.

Tuesday, Sept. 10—Qualifying round, 18 holes, medal play. First, second, third and fourth 16, lowest scores to qualify. Drawings for partners and time of play for each will be announced immediately after the conclusion of the qualifying round.

Wednesday, Sept. 11—First and second round of match play in four flights of 16.

Thursday, Sept. 12—9 a. m., Scotch foursome, 36 holes; handicap; medal play best ball to count. Players to consist of an amateur and a professional or two amateurs. Prize to amateurs, silver cup. Prize to professionals, $25 or a cup of equal value, at his option.

Friday, Sept. 13—8 a. m., handicap tournament, 18-hole medal play. Prize for the lowest gross score. Prize for the lowest net score.

Saturday, Sept. 14—Semifinal and final rounds of match play in four flights. Entries for the Scotch foursome close Sept. 10, at 6 p. m.

Entries for the handicap tournament close Thursday, Sept. 12, at 6 p. m. Entrance fee of $1 to be charged, covering any or all events.

To competitors who have entered the tournament the privileges of the club are extended during the entire week.

H. L. Ayer chairman, A. H. Gilbert, A. D. Locke, T. W. Sprague tournament committee.

AUTO AND CAR COLLIDED

Machine on Wrong Side of Boulevard in an Accident

An automobile and an electric car were both considerably damaged in an unusual accident which occurred on Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, about 3 Monday afternoon. The occupants of the automobile fortunately escaped injury.

As an east bound electric car was coming out of Norumbega park it collided with an automobile which bore the number 14953, and which the police say was proceeding toward Weston on the north side of the boulevard where motor vehicles are prohibited.

The running board on the right side of the car was smashed and the automobile was badly damaged. The automobile is said to have been owned by Fred W. Demmick of 9 Armory street, Lynn. The driver gave his name as George W. Demmick, father of the owner. The electric car was in charge of Motorman McMahon and Conductor Frazier.

CITY HALL NOTES

Rains this Week have Benefitted Water Supply

The rains this week benefitted the water supply to a considerable extent. During the long continued dry weather Newton was fortunate in not being compelled to have her consumption of water curtailed, as became necessary in many surrounding cities and towns. Officials of the water department a few weeks ago found it advisable, however, to sound a warning note when they requested residents to use only a moderate consumption of water until the present conditions abated. While the rains this week were welcomed by the water department officials, it is stated that a great amount of rain will be necessary in order to put the water supply on its normal basis.

Miss Frances Fitzgerald, stenographer in the offices of Street Commissioner Ross and Chief of Police Mitchell, is home from a fortnight's vacation spent at Hyannis.

Alfred M. Russell, agent of the board of health, left Wednesday for Cottage City, where he will spend a week with his family.

Frank M. Grant, assistant city clerk, returned Tuesday from a fortnight's vacation, which he spent in New York and Maine.

When preparing for fall house cleaning, why not consider the only real sanitary way, that is, by vacuum. It saves worry, time, annoyance and gives better results, making your carpets, upholstered furniture, etc., apparently new.

The Vacuum Cleaner Co., have been very busy in Newton this spring and all during the summer could be seen cleaning lodges, churches, etc.

If you should consider trying this system a card to the Vacuum Cleaner Co., 399 Boylston St., will bring a representative who will be very pleased to give you prices.

Police Paragraphs

Two horses whose owners are unknown were found astray in this city at an early hour Tuesday morning. Patrolman Dearborn found a bay mare having a white face wandering on Center street at 2 a. m. Patrolman Monaghan found a chestnut horse with a halter wandering on Waltham street half an hour later. Both horses were taken to local stables to await their owners.

Because he applauded a performance in the open air theatre at Norumbega park too vigorously when the rest of the audience was quiet, it is alleged, Joseph McAleer, aged 16, was before Judge Kennedy Tuesday morning as an alleged delinquent child. The police asserted that he was summoned to appear in a juvenile session of the court but failed to attend. He was arrested in Boston Saturday on a warrant. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the Concord reformatory. He appealed and was held in $300. Clifford W. Allen, aged 22, charged with being drunk in Norumbega park Saturday, pleaded guilty to the charge in court Tuesday morning. He was fined $5 and given until next Monday to pay.

The police of this city are frequently asked to search for property lost in peculiar ways but the climax was capped Tuesday forenoon when a young woman asked the department to recover a bracelet which she had dropped in the Charles river while canoeing near Auburndale. The request was received by Capt. John Ryan, a veteran of three wars, with more surprise than he has shown since he fought Indians on the plains with Gen. Custer. The young woman said the bracelet dropped off while she was trailing her hand overboard from a canoe in deep water. Capt. Ryan suggested that the only way to recover the jewelry would be to employ a diver, but he was unable to furnish the address of a reliable man.

Eight boys broke into a shed at Newton Upper Falls Tuesday where a quantity of tonic and other refreshments were stored for the joint carnival of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes at that place Saturday. They drank a considerable quantity of the tonic. Patrolman McKenzie gave chase to the boys. He cornered them on the bank of the Charles river at Upper Falls. The lads had a conference with Rev. T. J. Danahy, pastor of St. Mary's church, and it is expected that they will pay for the tonic they drank.

Pocket Picked of $400

Before Herbert W. Pierce of 575 Watertown street, Newtonville, left his home Friday night he put his wallet containing $400 in his hip pocket, thinking it would be safer there than in his inside vest pocket.

While viewing the new power plant of the Boston Elevated Railway on Atlantic avenue somebody "lifted" the money.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

A special meeting of the aldermen was held Wednesday evening to draw jurors for the Superior Court at Lowell next Monday. Aldermen Bacon, Bosson, Cabot, Condrin, Day, Doherty, Holmes, Jones, Palmer, Underwood and Weston were present when President Carter called to order at 7:45 o'clock.

Alderman Holmes was designated by the President to draw jurors and the names of Samuel S. Parker, of Washington street, Lower Falls, John F. Bridge of North street, Newtonville and James F. Maglinch of River street, West Newton, were drawn.

Orders were passed calling for Primary Election on Tuesday Sept. 24 and establishing polling places for the Primaries of Sept. 24 and Nov. 19th, after which the board adjourned.

At one of the summer estates on the North Shore a pet monkey lives like a lord. He has a steam-heated private house and a valet. The attendant gives Mr. Monk every attention, for his owner is afraid that consumption will catch the animal and end its days.

LABOR DAY SPORTS

Rain Spoiled Part of Program

Golf Season Opened on Every Local Course

Labor day was celebrated with a number of athletic attractions in this city Monday. The day brought the formal autumn opening of the golfing season, and on a number of courses interesting fixtures were conducted.

The day was marred by a drizzling rain which began shortly after the noon hour and continued throughout most of the afternoon and evening. While the downpour but slightly affected the golf matches, it caused the postponement of the joint carnival of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes at Newton Upper Falls until tomorrow, it caused part of the program of the field day of St. John's parish, Lower Falls, to be put over and it caused a number of baseball games to be cancelled. It was a day of disappointment for many.

LOWER FALLS CARNIVAL.

Despite the rain, part of the program of the annual carnival of St. John's parish was successfully conducted on the extensive grounds opposite the church on Washington street, Lower Falls.

The most important athletic events were postponed to later in the week however. The carnival will be continued this evening and all day Saturday on account of the rain Monday.

Tug-of-war contests were the principal athletic features Labor day. The Wellesley Hill team comprising five men captained by Thomas Haggerty defeated the division 25, A. O. H. team captained by Alexander McDonald by two inches. The winning team then met the widely known John Boyle O'Reilly team of Charlestown, captained by Daniel Coffey, but went down in defeat to the visitors. The Charlestown strong men pulled the rope 1 3/4 inches over the mark in two minutes, the allotted time.

The carnival is under the personal direction of Rev. P. H. Callahan, pastor of St. John's church, assisted by a large corps of sub-committees. In addition to numerous athletic and other events this and tomorrow evenings there will be a number of special features. A horse coupling contest for firemen took place last evening. This evening there will be a number of tug-of-war contests. Saturday evening there will be a special tug-of-war contest between "Con" Sullivan of Natick and "Dan" Coffey of Cambridge, both of whom are regarded as among the best men in this line in New England. Timothy J. Coffey of South Boston, who claims to be the champion of the world, will be present Saturday night to pull against any four men.

GOLF SEASON OPENED.

For all local golf clubs the day marked the opening of the fall season, and large fields were the rule.

At the Woodland G. C. more than 50 players were entered in the medal handicap tournament played in the morning. The competition was in two classes, for players with handicaps of 12 strokes and under, and 13 and over. In class A, C. A. Sibley, H. B. Richmond and J. A. McLeod tied for the net prize, each scoring 76. J. G. Anderson took the gross trophy with a 79. C. W. Hazen was low man in class B, with 94, 22, 72, J. A. Labonte returning the lowest gross card of 88. In the afternoon there was a boggy handicap tournament, also in two divisions. E. Raymond was low scorer in the first class, with 3 up, and in class B, A. M. Lane stood first at all even.

In a handicap medal tournament for a holiday cup at the Brae-Burn C. C., John F. Morrill returned the lowest net card of 79-10-69. G. R. Angus made the lowest gross, as well as the second best net, his score being 76-3-73.

There was a tie of four players at 32 in the best selected nine out of 27 holes medal handicap played at the Albemarle G. C. C. C. Briggs and H. A. Roark made the lowest gross scores for nine holes, each having a total of 35.

In the morning at the Chestnut Hill G. C. the holiday tournament was a swatfest. After the first flight was away a consolation competition was started for those who had dropped out of the first division up to the fourth hole. F. F. Harrington won the prize in the first flight, his latest opponent, F. W. Tully, holding out to the sixth green. In the consolation event C. H. Parker won on the 12th green, F. R. Hall being the winner-up in that class.

In a boggy handicap sweepstakes played at Chestnut Hill in the afternoon W. W. Davis was top man, scoring 4 down with a handicap of 15. A. J. Fairbanks and C. H. Parker took second and third prizes with 5 down.

At the Commonwealth C. C. in the morning E. H. Kenney won the medal handicap tournament with the lowest net card of 69. W. H. Cady made the lowest gross score of 82. In the afternoon the mixed foursomes handicap was won by Miss E. Smith and T. R. Fuller, who had 98-23-75.

WENT 13 INNINGS.

In a well-played 13-inning contest

Quincy defeated Newton Y. M. C. A., 7 to 6, on the Cabot park diamond in the forenoon. Features of the game were the batting of the visitors and an admirable one-handed catch made in the field by Chase of Newton. The visitors got 13 hits and made two errors, while Newton got but six hits and made five errors. Penley and Smith were the battery for Quincy, and Howard and Miley were the battery for Newton.

PHINNEY-POORE

Watertown Man Takes Bride in this City—Pretty Ceremony

A pretty home wedding took place Tuesday evening when Miss Marion C. Poore, daughter of Mrs. M. F. Poore, was married to Clarence J. Phinney of Watertown at the home of the bride, 37 Thornton street. In the presence of many guests from this city and surrounding towns the ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Newell C. Maynard, assistant pastor of Eliot church.

The bride was gowned in white swiss muslin over taffeta silk, her dress being trimmed with Irish point lace. She wore a veil and carried white china asters. She was attended by Miss Florence Tielhurst of Newton as maid of honor, who wore a gown of white and carried pink china asters. Alexander Murray of Watertown was best man, and Miss Isabel Wood of Dorchester and Master Alfred Thomas of Brighton were ring bearers. The double ring service was used, the bride being given away by her brother, John J. Poore.

The ceremony was performed under a bower of palms, the bridal room was decorated with gold and white asters, the dining room was in red and white and the parlor in green and white. A large number of American beauty roses were used in the decorations. The wedding march was played by Miss Elzie Connor of Exeter, N. H. A reception followed the ceremony, Mrs. Poore, Mrs. Charles Hunting of Newton, Miss Nelly Nuby of Boston, Mrs. J. G. Pope of Allston, a sister of the groom, and Mrs. M. E. Giles of Newton assisting. Mr. and Mrs. Phinney left for a trip to Pembroke, Me. Upon their return they will reside in Newton.

CLOTHESLINE STRIPPED

Colored Servant Accused of Larceny from Neighbors

Because Bertha Brown, a 23-year old colored servant who worked 13 months in the family of Mrs. Alice Randlett, Central street, Auburndale, took it, it was alleged, 15 to 20 pieces of clothing from the clothesline of Mrs. O. F. Herrick, a neighbor, and packed up four pounds of coffee said to belong to her employer and tagged the box for a cousin in Baltimore, she found herself in the police court Wednesday morning to answer to a charge of larceny.

She pleaded not guilty and asserted that the clothing had been given her by Mrs. Herrick's maid, whose name is Catherine, to keep while Catherine went on a vacation. As for the coffee, she said, that was bought in Boston.

"To whom were you going to send the coffee?" asked the court.

"To a cousin of mine."

"Why?"

"Well, you see, Judge," replied the Brown woman, "people in Baltimore appreciate things that come from up north that they don't know much about."

Mrs. Herrick and Mrs. Randlett could not assert positively that the Brown woman took the clothing. They simply knew that it was hung out one foggy night last May and was gone the next morning. About five skirts and other pieces of clothing were found last week in the Brown woman's effects at the Randlett dwelling, testified Mrs. Randlett. She said she also found rice and vinegar stored away in places that seemed peculiar to say the least.

The servant asserted that the clothing had been given her to keep for a few weeks. She could not be shaken from the story.

"We need Catherine, Mrs. Herrick's maid, to supply the missing link in the testimony," said Judge Kennedy. The court waited half an hour while Acting Inspector O'Halloran drove to the house in Auburndale and brought Catherine to the witness stand.

The maid emphatically declared that she never gave any clothing or other articles to the Brown woman. The latter said she might not just recall it but that she did give her the clothes. The maid became indignant and was so emphatic in her denial that the court had to call upon court officer Laffie to restore quietness.

"There is no difficulty about hearing that testimony," remarked Judge Kennedy as he handed the warrant over to Clerk Sprague.

A fine of $25 was imposed.

About Town

A severe thunder storm was experienced in this city early Wednesday morning. Lowell avenue between Highland avenue and Otis street was flooded to an unusual extent during the height of the downpour about 5 a. m. At 3:20 lightning disabled part of the police signal system in various parts of the municipality, but two hours later wire men had the system working satisfactorily.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist, a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

Following our usual custom we have given space in another column to a lengthy communication attacking many departments of the city. The time is too short this week to correct the large amount of misinformation which our correspondent includes in the communication and we must ask our readers to withhold judgment on the merits of the matter until we can place the facts before them. One instance will suffice to show the mistaken idea of "H. I. B." He criticizes the construction of Commonwealth avenue as entailing a financial burden on the city. As a matter of fact Commonwealth avenue was one of the most profitable pieces of work the municipality has ever undertaken. The taxes received on the increased valuations along its path, have for many years more than paid the interest and sinking fund requirements of the Boulevard Loan, and are constantly increasing.
Some acts of the city government are properly subject to criticism, but unfair statements are to be deplored.

The political atmosphere is gradually clearing in favor of the re-election of Governor Guild and Lieutenant Governor Draper. The factional fights in the Democracy will work for the success of the Republican ticket. Newton will have candidates in the councillor, district at torney and senatorial conventions and will be much in evidence during the campaign.

Yesterday marked the official end of the dog days and it fully maintained the muggy standard which we always expect.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The junior department of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association has so large a membership that another room will, this year, be set aside for the exclusive use of the boys and younger men.

To furnish this room properly we need six small tables for chess, checkers and carroms, a small book case for a choice library for boys, a round table with six chairs for a cosy corner to be used as a reading room, a ping pong table, a small pool or Batello table, games, books, etc., for the recreation and profit of the boys.

This equipment must be given by friends of the boys of Newton and we therefore appeal to the readers of this statement to help us in this matter.

C. L. Ellison, Chairman Boys' Work Committee.

George W. Bail Dead

George W. Bail, aged 74 years, for many years engaged in the coal business in South Boston, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 1025 Walnut street, Newton Highlands. Death was caused by heart trouble.

Mr. Bail was a native of South Boston, but for the last 15 years had made his home in this city. He was a graduate of the Old Hawes school. He was one of the oldest members of St. Paul's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of South Boston.
He was also a member of the Knights of Honor and several smaller organizations.

For 30 years he had been engaged in the retail coal business in South Boston, having offices on First street. About six months ago he was obliged to retire from active business because of ill health. He is survived by a family.

The funeral arrangements had not been completed last night, but it was announced that the service would probably take place at his late home Sunday.

Mr. Kenerson Dead

Mr. Levi Kenerson died at his home on Tremont street, Newton, last Monday after a two days' illness with acute indigestion, following a long period of ill health. Mr. Kenerson was 69 years of age and was engaged in the insurance business until about five years ago. He is survived by a widow and two daughters. Funeral services were held at his late residence yesterday afternoon at two o'clock in charge of Rev. H. Grant Person of Eliot church and the interment was at Newton Cemetery.

Burglars Foiled

The residence of Mrs. George F. Lowell at 525 Walnut street, Newtonville, was entered by burglars about three o'clock yesterday morning. Entrance was effected thru the window of the reception room. Members of the family were awakened by the noise and the turning on the hall light frightened the men so that they opened the dining room window, escaped and were seen driving away in a carriage. The police were notified by telephone but were unable to reach the house in time. About an hour later, a man was noticed prowling around the house for some time and another telephone message was sent the police department, which responded for a second time, too late for effectual service. This affair emphasizes the great need of an automobile for the police to use in such emergencies.

Woman's Exchange

The store occupied by the Newton Woman's Exchange at 275 Washington street has been cleaned and painted during the summer months, making the interior more attractive.

The exchange which has had a varying business career, was for the past year conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Briggs of the Brookline Woman's Exchange.

Last May this plan was abandoned when the Brookline Association, owing to increased responsibilities at home, was obliged to give up this branch. Mrs.
Briggs secured the active interest of several Newton women who stepped into the breach. Local management of the exchange should prove beneficial in every way. The present board of directors desire to serve the public and give a fair return to the women workers. The ambitious plans of the board are necessarily in embryo as yet.

The scheme is philanthropic inasmuch as the exchange provides a medium through which home products may be secured by the public, and the home worker finds a market for her wares.

An endeavor will be made to place the exchange on a practical business basis to further that purpose.

Today the food department will be in readiness to serve its patrons. A specialty will be made of baked beans and brown bread on Saturday.

Oak Square Gospel Tent Services

The work which was announced early in June has continued throughout the summer with unabated interest. The main service of the Sabbath is at 4 o'clock, at which time the tent is well filled each week, and what is more those who attend show a real interest in the work.

Rev. D. Stewart Smith who is in charge of the work has had valuable assistance from time to time. Among those who have spoken are Rev. C. A. Blanchard, Pres. of Wheaton College, Dr. Geo.
S. Butters of Newton, R. L. Douglass, Pres. of the City Missionary Society and Bishop Mallelieu.

Next Sunday Mr. Allan C. Emery
Vice President of the Newton Y. M. C.
A. is to be the speaker.

All seats are free and everybody is welcome.

Newton Says Amen

No great progress in the extension of the electrification of the steam railroads is likely so long as the difficulty in raising money continues. Successful systems of electrification have proved highly expensive; perhaps not too expensive in times of ordinary money conditions to return interest on the investment in the areas of congested population and heavy traffic, since the power itself, once installed, is much cheaper than that of the consuming locomotive. The Newton Circuit is in the most crying need of some improvement of any piece of railroad about here, because the deep cuts and frequent overhead bridges make a chasm which becomes easily filled with smoke and dirt and gases. Something might be accomplished by coke-burning, but much more by electrification. The Circuit, with the opportunity for a power station at Faneuil, with plenty of water for condensing and other purposes, and near enough to both branches of the line to supply the power current lends itself peculiarly well to electrification.
It should be the first to experience its benefit, and the Railroad Commission ought not to hesitate to apply the necessary pressure to bring it to pass as soon as the experiments about New York afford a clear basis for action.—Boston

SCHOOLS IN READINESS

Sessions Begin All Over the City Next Monday

Many Changes in Teaching Staff—An Overflow Building

Next Monday will see the opening of the public schools in this city, and Supt.
F. E. Spaulding believes that the registration figures will show an increase of at least five per cent over last year.

Two new grammar schools are in process of construction, one at Newton Highlands and one at Nonantum, but these will not be ready for occupancy for some time. Preliminary plans are now being made for a technical high school which will be built on the Ex-Gov.
Claffin estate. Until these buildings are completed the present schoolhouses will be crowded.

The reopening of the schools will bring a number of changes in the teaching staff. Since last year two teachers have died. One of these, Miss Elizabeth Ayles, was for 24 years a teacher here. Her place as teacher of the 6th grade of the Bigelow school will be filled by Miss Fannie C. Stearns of Waverley, a graduate of the Fitchburg normal school. The other death was that of Miss Mary Sussorott, for eight years teacher of the 8th grade of the Adams school at Nonantum. During the last months that she taught she had charge of the sixth grade of the Claffin school, Newtonville, which place will be filled by Miss Lena E. Dill of Somerville, who has taught in that city 10 years.

In the high school there will be an unusual number of changes. Prof. A. J.
George, head of the English department a score of years, will be absent until January on a leave of absence granted because of his severe illness. His position will be filled by Martin Post, a Harvard graduate and recently teacher in the Yeatman high school in St. Louis.
Samuel Thurber Jr., junior master, will be temporarily at the head of the English department. Miss Siegrid Eckman of the French department has resigned and will be succeeded by Miss Elizabeth Sleeper, for several years in a similar position in the Fitchburg high school.
Miss Mary H. Cutler of the history department has resigned to pursue a course of special study at Radcliffe. Her position will be taken by Miss Marion Churchill, special assistant last year.

The growth of the commercial department makes necessary the addition of another instructor, E. N. Gerrish, a graduate of the university of Vermont and recently teacher in the Jacob home institute at Port Deposit, Md. Miss Grace Shephardson, recently physical instructor in the Oskosh normal school, a native of this city, will succeed Miss Mary G. Cannon in the department of physical culture. Miss Cannon goes to a like position in Brooklyn, N. Y. Miss Luliona M. Baker, laboratory assistant, will go to Smith college as assistant instructor, and she will be succeeded here by Miss Mary Roberts of Bristol, Conn., a Wellesley college graduate. Miss Edna Dean will become instructor in the German department, taking the place of Miss Ida A. Merrill, who will study abroad for several months. Miss Crete
M. Kimball of Springfield, a graduate of Wellesley college last June, will become special assistant in the English department.

Miss Grace E. Morgan has resigned
as teacher of the 5th grade in the Claffin school, Newtonville, to take a position at Hampton institute. She will be succeeded here by an instructor yet to be selected.

Miss Mary W. Lane of the 7th and Miss Norena Collins of the 6th grade of the Pierce school, West Newton, have resigned. Their places will be filled by substitutes. Miss Mary A. Tisdale will be transferred from the 1st grade of this school to the Franklin school, where she will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Catherine S. Gillis.

Miss Alma Sworer will be advanced from teacher of the 8th grade to first assistant of the Burr school, Auburndale, succeeding Miss Florence W. James, who has resigned. Mrs. Grace H. Fiske, who last January resigned as teacher of the 2nd grade of this school, will return to this position.

The committee has accepted the resignation of Miss Martha A. Putney, for five years teacher of the 6th grade in the Ralph Waldo Emerson school, Newton
Upper Falls, who has been ill for a year.
She will be succeeded by Miss Mary R.
Stewart of this city, a graduate of Bridgewater normal school. Miss Catharine C. Sullivan, three years teacher of the 5th grade in this school, will be advanced to the position of first assistant made vacant by the resignation of Miss Blanche C. Fuller. Miss Elsie L. Fuller leaves the first grade to accept a place in Fitchburg and she will be succeeded by Miss Grace Hunt, a substitute in the school last year.

Miss Lucy A. French, last year special assistant in the Roger Wolcott school, Waban, will become teacher of the 5th grade of the Hyde school, Newton Highlands, succeeding Miss Edith L. Dexter, who has resigned. The growth of the 1st grade in the Hyde school will require another assistant, Miss Abbie F. Mumm, a graduate of Fitchburg normal school.

Miss Edythe B. Schuyler, formerly of the 7th grade of the Mason school, Newton Centre, will succeed Miss Lillie
E. Hedberg in the 9th grade of that school. The 7th grade will be taught by Miss Nada Loughton of Brockton. Miss Estelle H. Smith of Bridgewater will become teacher of the 5th grade, succeeding Miss Florence E. Whipple who has resigned after six years' service.

Miss Justina C. Rafter will be transferred from the Thompsonville school to the Rice school, Newton Centre, where she will succeed Miss Mary C. Tilton, teacher of the 2d grade four years.

Miss Nina B. Forsythe has resigned as teacher of sewing to accept a like place in the Milligan university, Decatur, Ill. She will be succeeded by Miss Anna Costello of Newton Lower Falls.
A third sloyd class will be started, this one in the Bigelow school, Newton proper. It will be in charge of Miss Edith A. Matteson. Miss Ruth A. Ayer, teacher of sloyd at Newton Centre, will return from a year's leave of absence.

The Froebel school, a private institution on Highland avenue, West Newton, will be taken over by the school committee this year. Here will be housed the overflow from the three lowest grades.
The school will be in charge of Miss Kestila Roy of Watertown, assisted by Miss Helen E. Miller. The experiment will be watched with no little interest.

Special assistants will begin work in various schools as follows: Bigelow, Newton, Miss Avah Connell of Lowell normal school; Horace Mann, Newton ville, Miss Sadie E. Lamphrey of Fitchburg normal school; Pierce, West Newton, Miss Marion Richardson of Bridgewater normal; Williams, Auburndale, Miss Alice F. Brooks of Lowell normal;
Emerson, Newton Upper Falls, Miss Florence Feinder of Lowell normal;
Hyde, Newton Highlands, Miss Mary B.
Conrad of Fitchburg normal; Mason, Newton Centre, Miss O. M. Matteson of Oneonta (N. Y.) normal; Rice, Newton Centre, Miss Josephine Baldwin, Fitchburg normal.

Pupils are returning from vacations in large numbers and it is expected that by Sunday practically all the public school pupils will be home.

The Boston & Oaxaca (pronounced Wah-ha-ka) Mining Company properties are located in the State of Oaxaca, Mexico. Have been in operation for two years. During that period a great mine has been developed and fully equipped. Prospectus containing maps, engineers' reports and full particulars will be sent upon application.

The Boston & Oaxaca Mining Company is managed by practical men—honest men—men who are held in the highest esteem and confidence by all who know them, and they have all been successful in their individual callings. They are of the old-fashioned conservative New England type who follow the Golden Rule and do unto others as they would have them do unto them. They have been faithful to their trust and are as solicitous for their stockholders' interest as for their own.

Starting in business for myself, after several years with Mr.
Thomas W. Lawson as one of his confidential executives, I appreciate how important it is to me and my firm not to make any mistake, and before presenting this proposition to the public I have examined it most carefully from every standpoint and will forever stand back of each and every statement made by me in connection therewith as true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

I appreciate the responsibility of advising the purchase of any stock, but so sure am I of this property, and my confidence in the integrity of its managers is such, that I do unqualifiedly recommend it as an investment, and believe it will sell eventually at, and be worth on its merit, $5 per share.

The amount of stock we have to offer at the present time is limited. The price is fifty-five cents per share. Applications should be made direct to our office.

The Intruders

BY TROY ALLISON.

Copyright, 1907, by Homer Sprague.

The janitor's wife allowed herself to hesitate and was lost. "There's an apartment you might use for awhile, Miss Marjorie; it wouldn't cost anything, and your little mite of money would last longer."

Marjorie Kershaw's young face brightened. "Martha, you always were a dear, just like you used to be when you and Bob lived on the farm next to our place."

Martha Jordan nodded her head. "I never thought I'd live to see you without a relative, coming to work for your living in the city, Miss Marjorie," she said dolefully.

The girl's face clouded. "Poor old father! He never knew how to manage things. I believe it was the thought of leaving me unprovided for that hastened his death."

"Mrs. Jordan took a latchkey from behind the clock. 'Dearie, you might as well use the flat—it won't do any harm, and it will make your money hold out longer. Dr. Ingram won't know the difference.'"

The girl revealed in the luxury of the apartment. Accustomed to the plainness of a rambling old country house, the Turkish rugs and the artistic furnishings seemed the height of magnificence. She succeeded in securing a position to teach primary music in a private school, after much worry and many letters written by the rector of her home church. She was to board and room at the school when the term commenced, and she thought regretfully of giving up her present artistic quarters.

Mrs. Jordan received one afternoon a letter telling her when to have the rooms ready—and Marjorie Kershaw sprinkled the doctor's plants that night.

She determined to make some payment for her free lodging. So she took from the top of the bookcase the old silver tray with its tea service. She would polish the doctor's silver and leave his apartments in good condition. She probably spent too much energy on the first piece, for, yawning in the coming twilight, she leaned back on the pillows of the couch, the silver spread around on the floor, and fell fast asleep.

If old Mrs. Van Lear had not chosen to get sick and to have refused to allow any one except her pet physician to look after her, John Ingram would have conformed to Mrs. Jordan's opinion, and never have known anything about it. As it was, he let himself into his apartment that night about 9.

Reaching for the electric light, he stumbled over his silver teapot, and the girl on the couch sat up suddenly, her sleepy eyes blinking from the light. She gave one gasp, then straightened herself on the couch, her feet braced firmly on the floor.

He stood still, his astonishment, aided by the silver teapot, giving him the appearance of detected guilt. "Aren't you—ashamed of yourself?" she asked sternly.

"I don't seem able to analyze my feelings," the doctor said doubtfully. "To think of a man breaking into a house and stealing—teapots," she said accusingly.

"I seem to have only one," he hazarded excitedly. "It's just as bad as a dozen—it's stealing," her young voice full of righteous indignation.

The doctor gripped the teapot and stared wonderingly at her tumbled hair and flushed face. "It doesn't seem quite as bad to steal just one; you seem a little hard on a man."

"I don't just know what to do with you," reflectively. "You see, I never caught a burglar before and don't know what to do."

"Would you mind my sitting down while you think it over? Of course I don't expect you to have much sympathy for me—you have never had any temptation to take things that didn't belong to you."

Her face turned red as she remembered the money she had saved by using some one's apartment without permission.

"—but tonight I was tired and hungry."

"I might give you something to eat," she said hesitatingly, "but I'm afraid to take my finger off this bell."

"Let me fix something to eat," she suggested, with alacrity. "You sit still and watch me and ring the bell if I begin to do anything suspicious." He went to a cabinet and found some tea, then started the alcohol lamp.

"There are some olives and sardines and a box of crackers in the chafing dish cabinet," he said while he put the kettle to boil.

"You must have ransacked the whole apartment before I awoke," she said indignantly.

"Well—er—I do seem to remember where to find things—that's my profession, you know."

"Have you put any of the doctor's things in that grip?" She pointed to the satchel he had left on the floor.

The doctor seemed to tell a lie, even when he was cornered. "Only a few of his collars and cuffs," extenuatingly. "You see, I—rather needed some clean things."

"I should think you did." Her glance took in the coat dust sprinkled over his face, the tweed cap set rakishly on his head and the loose Norfolk jacket he had worn to travel in. "Even if you are poor, you might keep your face clean. I wouldn't have blamed you much if you had taken a cake of the doctor's soap—he uses awfully nice soap," reminiscently.

"Would you—er—take a cup of tea, or are you above eating with a burglar?"

Her young eyes were hungry—it had been hours since Mrs. Jordan's early dinner. She hesitated, then held out her hand.

"I'll take the tea," she said finally, "and I'm going to tell you why I'm not going to turn you over to the police."

The doctor allowed just the proper amount of surprised joy to beam in his face. "You are going to let me go?" he gasped.

She nodded her head affirmatively. "Yes—because—I'm a thief, too," she said almost in a whisper.

It was a real emotion that appeared on the doctor's face then. "What the devil—what do you mean?" he gasped.

"Oh—I didn't take teapots—I took—everything," miserably.

He forked a sardine out of the box and settled himself comfortably. "Suppose you tell me about it. Maybe we could help each other out of a hole." His voice was full of kindness.

"I took the whole flat," she said forlornly, and told him how she had yielded to the temptation to save her little bit of money.

"Little woman, don't you mind. I don't believe that chump of a doctor would mind a bit if he knew. If he did, he wouldn't be much of a man in my opinion. You needn't even think of it, and you can stay here a week longer and he safely cleared out before he gets back to—the flat," he finished lamely.

"Do you think I might?" she asked eagerly.

"I know you may," with a convincing air, "and you haven't done anything wrong; you've even done the man a good turn. Haven't you kept me from stealing his silver? And you have talked to me like I was a human being. I promise you I'll never attempt to steal—another teapot as long as I live."

"If you would stop stealing and fix yourself respectably, you would look really nice—and could get a job," she encouraged. "You don't look like a common burglar."

He took the satchel from the floor, trying to hide the fact that he was choking over the idea of not looking hopelessly degraded.

"Whenever I get respectable I shall want to thank you for what you have done for me. Won't you tell me your name?" he asked as he stood in the doorway.

"Marjorie Kershaw, and I will be glad to help you get a job," interested in his reformation.

The doctor thought of the usual jobs he met with and smiled. "Good night, Miss—, I hope I'll be a changed man when you see me again." He went out, leaving her staring blankly at the door.

Firm in her resolve to give the man a chance to reform without starting handcuffed, Marjorie did not tell even Martha of her adventure. When, therefore, Mrs. Sedley, the principal of the preparatory school in which Marjorie taught that fall, called in Dr. Ingram to treat Miss Kershaw's sprained ankle she had no idea that she was furnishing the sequel to the affair.

"Miss Kershaw, I think Dr. Ingram can soon have that foot feeling more comfortable," she said as the doctor followed her into the room.

Dr. Ingram's eyes twinkled with sudden recognition. "Ah, I think Miss Kershaw and I have met before! It was at—let me see—a luncheon, was it not, Miss Kershaw?"

The riot of color in her face tickled his fancy immensely. "I rather think it was at a masquerade," she retorted, her eyes flashing.

"You were kind enough to promise me a job. I see you are a woman of your word." He wrapped the bandage skillfully, taking longer than was customary. "I have made a bad job of this," slyly tearing the linen into a shorter length than he wanted. "Could you find a bandage somewhat longer than this, Mrs. Sedley?" he asked in an absolutely professional manner.

When she left the room the girl looked at him reproachfully. "And they were your rooms," she said shamefacedly.

"I wouldn't have missed so charming an experience for worlds," he said emphatically. "Mrs. Jordan positively refused to commit herself on the subject."

The girl gave an irrepressible giggle. "Please bring them when you come next time," she said, then suddenly grew serious. "Will I be able to skate this winter?" anxiously.

He looked at her with a solemnity befitting the last stage of a hopeless case. "It will need a great deal of attention, but I think—just think, mind you—that you might skate the first time the ice is thick enough—if you had a physician at hand to watch you and keep you from overexertion."

Her face flushed and she heard, with relief, Mrs. Sedley's returning footsteps.

"Promise that you'll go the very first freeze," he said eagerly; "promise—or I vow I'll put on something that will blister—and will put pins in the bandage—lots of 'em."

She hesitated, her eyes shy before the impulsive admiration in his gaze. "I promise," she said softly, as Mrs. Sedley entered the room.

"The very thing, Mrs. Sedley," he exclaimed, taking the roll of linen, "we will have her as comfortable as can be. And Mrs. Sedley, I wish you would see to it that she does not allow that ankle to grow stiff when she recovers the use of it. There will soon be fine skating—I should recommend it as the exercise most suited to the ligaments involved."

"I told you I might be turned into a nice, respectable man," he whispered. "I like my new job—immensely!"

Judged by Their Cats.

"No, ma'am," said an Irish maid of much experience as she returned to a New York Intelligence office the other day. "I didn't engage with that family. I didn't like the looks of their cat."

"Of their cat?" repeated the owner of the office in amazement. "Why, Katie, I'm sure they wouldn't keep a cat that was in any way dangerous."

"Not dangerous, no, ma'am, but a restless, unhappy looking creature that didn't speak well for the family," replied the girl. "I always judge a family by their cat—if they have one. A sleek, comfortable pussy who comes up and rubs against you means a quiet, good natured family and one that's not worrying about ways and means, but a nervous, unfriendly looking cat reflects a household which is on the verge of nervous prostration or financial ruin or some other horrible trouble."

"I've been living with families and studying their cats for twenty-five years, and I've never known the sign to fail. A family that can't make its cat happy is one to make any servant miserable."—New York Press.

Psychologically Explained.

Mrs. Flaherty, who earns her living and maintains two clean little rooms in an uptown tenement by going out to do washing and day's work, has been a widow for many years, and entertains a strong prejudice against marriage for any but the young. "Tis all right at that time o' life," she maintains, "but not for old people with gray hairs. Then 'tis unseemly and the height o' foolishness."

Holding these opinions as she does, it was a severe shock to Mrs. Flaherty to learn that one of her best customers, a widow of threescore and ten, was about to be married for the second time. Almost tearfully she confided her sentiments to another patron.

"Think of it! Her a-fixin' all them fine clothes and takin' as much pride in it as if she was to be a bride of twenty instead of an old woman that'll never see seventy again! Why," and her voice dropped to an awed whisper, "at her time o' life I believe 'tis the ruin o' death is on the woman!"

—New York Times.

A Scotch Excuse.

A canny Scot was brought before a magistrate on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. "What have you to say for yourself, sir?" demanded the magistrate. "You look like a respectable man and ought to be ashamed to stand there."

"I am verra sorry, sir, but I came up in bad company fra Glasgow," humbly replied the prisoner.

"What sort of company?"

"A lot of teetotalers!" was the startling response.

"Do you mean to say teetotalers are bad company?" thundered the magistrate. "I think they are the best of company for such as you."

"Beggins' yer pardon, sir," answered the prisoner, "ye're wrong; for I had a bottle of whusky an' I had to drink it all myself!"—Reynolds' Newspaper.

Strong Soup.

In the life of William Stokes, written by his son, it is told how Stokes was sent over to Dublin during the great famine to show the people how to make soup. Stokes asked a starving beggar why she did not go and get some of the soup that was being freely distributed.

"Soup, is it, your honor? Sure, it isn't soup at all!" "And what is it, then?" inquired Stokes. "It is nothin', your honor, but a quart of water boiled down to a pint to make it strong!"

"This is the soup make which Hogarth caricatured in his picture of the French troops at Calais."—London Standard.

Mixed Liquors Barred.

Rory MacSnory was the village blacksmith and one of the most powerful slingers in the choir of the kirk at Auchleucheries. To show off his voice to full advantage he would vary his style from bass to alto and from alto to treble in the same hymn.

The minister had long observed that Rory's methods were upsetting the general melody of the congregation's singing, and at length he resolved to bring the culprit to book.

"Hymn 34," he announced, "and a' thegither. And, Mr. MacSnory, if ye're the sing tenor, sing tenor, or if ye're the sing bass, sing bass, but we'll hae nae mair o' yer shandygaff!"—Dundee Advertiser.

The Reason.

All sorts and conditions of men have excellent reasons for their position in life. Illustrated Bits tells of a tramp who had no illusions about the cause of his own condition:

Mrs. Finehealth (at hotel entrance)—No. I have no money to spare for you. I do not see why an albeholded man like you should go about begging.

Lazy Tramp—I s'pose, mum, it's fer about the same reason that a healthy woman like you boards at a hotel, instead of keeping house.

A Rebuff.

"Do you think your father would like me as a son-in-law?"

"Yes, I believe he would."

"Oh, joy! I—"

"Papa and I never agree about anything, you know."

Feminine Nerves.

There are nervous women; there are hypernervous women. But women are nervous that the continual rustle of a silk skirt makes them nervous—no, there are no women so nervous as that!

Error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it.—Jefferson.

Trying the Wrong Man.

An unusual verdict was rendered by the jury in a case tried in a California town a good many years ago. The question was as to the ownership of several head of cattle which the defendant was accused of having stolen from the plaintiff. As the case proceeded and different witnesses gave their evidence, it became apparent to all listeners that the defendant was an innocent man. When it came time for the jury to retire to consider their verdict, they did so, but returned to the courtroom in a few moments. The foreman looked the judge straight in the eye and said with a drawl and twang which betrayed his New England origin:

"Judge, we find the plaintiff guilty."

"The court is not trying the plaintiff, but the defendant," said his honor hastily, and the matter being explained, the foreman was at length induced to express the jury's opinion that the defendant was not guilty.

"Howsomever," added the foreman solemnly, "hears to me we're considering the wrong man, your honor!"

Holy Land a World Center.

It used to be a fancy that the Holy Land was the center of the world. In a sense not then meant it was indeed central. It occupied a strategic position. Three continents converge here—the ancient continents known as the ancients—Asia, Africa and Europe. Contiguous to Palestine on the south lies Egypt and on the north Syria. Or, taking a wider view, on one side of it were India, Persia, Assyria and Babylonia, while on the other side of it were Egypt, Greece and Rome. A babe among giants the land of Jesus was indeed little among the geographical tribes; but, like a babe, it was monarch of the household of lands.

From its central vantage tiny Palestine saw through the march of centuries the procession of these mighty empires—Assyrian, Babylonian, Medo-Persian, Greek and Roman, being itself during much of the time a center of influence and determining force that have helped form the character and history of the civilized world.—Exchange.

A Clash of Prayers.

Maggie, with her fair face and blond hair, and Nina, with dusky skin and kinky wool, had played together at mud pies and had swung on the same gate ever since they could remember, for Nina's mammy was Maggie's nurse, says the Housekeeper. They were now seven years old. Maggie loved Nina in spite of her color, yet she had a feeling that her friend deserved to be white, so she added to her prayer each night:

"Please, God, make Nina white."

As the weeks went by and Nina remained unchanged Maggie felt that her petition needed re-enforcement, so she confided in Nina, begging her to pray for the greatly desired bleaching. But Nina in surprise looked at Maggie with wide open eyes and exclaimed:

"Me? No, sir-ee. Fo' de Lawd, Maggie, I doan want to be no white child, an' I's jes' prayin' with all my might for you to come black!"

The Intelligent Bird.

Two negroes in Washington were overheard discussing the intelligence of birds in general.

"Birds is shore sensible," observed one darky to the other. "Yo' kin learn them anything. I user work for a lady that had one in a clock, an' when it was time to tell de time it user come out an' say cuckoo jest as many times as de time was!"

"Yo' doan say so?" asked the other negro incredulously.

"Shore thing!" responded the first darky. "Bat de mos' wonderful part was dat it was only a wooden bird too!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Builders.

"The Egyptians were the builders," said a contractor enviously. "No wonder their monuments will endure forever. Labor was nothing to them. As you would spend a cent on a newspaper so would an Egyptian king put 10,000 men to work upon a temple. Labor, you see, cost nothing. A striking example of the Egyptian prodigality of labor lies in this fact: No less than 2,000 men were employed for three years in carrying a single stone, a stone of unexampled size, from Elephantine to Sais."

Unlucky at Bridge.

"Do you believe in this thirteen superstition?" asked Tote de Veau.

"I do," replied L'Oignon. "I could never understand why I was so unlucky at bridge till I discovered that I was always dealt a hand of just thirteen."—Exchange.

A Little Mixed.

A Hindoo barrister thus excused an absent client whom sickness had prevented from coming to court: "The man has fallen unwell, your honor, and he has sent a man here to say that he is lying and cannot come."

A Theory.

Tommie—Pa, how do storms git out? Tompkins—Get out? What are you drivin' at—out of what? Tommie—W'y, the weather bureau, o' course. I didn't know but mebby the man left a drawer open.

A Failure.

"When she gave you the piece of cake, did you say 'Thank you?'"

"Yes, ma, but it didn't do no good."

"Didn't do any good?"

"No; she didn't give me another piece."

BROWN AND WHITE BREAD.

Familiar food in a new guise will sometimes tempt the appetite, and even so simple an innovation as bread baked in a different form is well worth the extra care. There are no expensive pans to buy, for the one-pound baking powder cans, which accumulate in every pantry, are just the right size.

For the brown bread, use one even cup of corn meal, two heaping cups of rye meal measured before sifting, one level teaspoon of salt, one level teaspoon of soda, one cup of molasses and one pint of hot water. Sift the meal then mix the salt and soda with it thoroughly by sifting again. Add the hot water to the molasses, stir well and pour into the meal. Beat until the mixture is a smooth batter, then turn into well greased baking powder cans, put covers on closely and steam two hours, being sure that the steamer or kettle is not moved for the first hour at least, and that the water does not stop boiling for a minute.

For the white bread use your favorite rule, remembering that if the bread is mixed in the morning, using a whole yeast cake to one pint of liquid, the dough will be raised in about three hours. Knead well and fill baking powder cans a little less than half full. Let the dough rise until the cans are nearly full then bake. Be careful that the little loaves do not rise too much before going into the oven. Arrange alternate brown and white slices on the bread plate.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre.—The fall and winter season opened very auspiciously at Keith's last Monday with one of the best vaudeville bills ever seen in the theatre. This great show will be followed by one the coming week that will be fully up to it both in quality and quantity. Paul Conchas, "The Military Hercules", the greatest heavyweight juggler the stage has known, has returned to America this season under contract to play the Keith circuit. He has added many novelties to his act since he created such a sensation some three years ago. Fred Walton and his company are to present the pantomimic classic, "Cissy's Dream", one of the gems of vaudeville. Bessie Wynne is to return with some new songs. She scored one of the hits of the past season and is certainly without a peer among comedienne. "Stop, Look and Listen" is the title of the sketch to be played by Noy Tully and company. It is a very clever bit of dramatic work from the pen of Matthew White, Jr., one of the editors of Munsey's, and gives Miss Tully a splendid chance to introduce her remarkable impersonations of well known actresses. Smith and Campbell, the original cross-fire conversationalists, will have a batch of new humorists. Others on the bill will be Watson and Little in a bright vocal comedy; the Petching Brothers, with their musical flower garden; Jessie Blair Stirling, a singer of Scottish songs; the Robinson-Parquette trio of singers and dancers; Owley and Randall, comedy jugglers; Lonnie Follett, a talented mimic; De Voie and Miller, acrobatic humorists, and the Kinetograph.

Boston Grand Opera House.—That winsome little creature, Lottie Williams, comes to the Boston Grand Opera House next week in Charles E. Blaney's latest musical comedy drama, "Josie, The Little Madcap". The dialogue of the play is bright and crisp, and the story is beautifully told. Both male and female quartettes add to the enjoyment of the entertainment by the introduction of latest popular songs. A number of clever people have been recruited from the specialties. Matinees will be given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual.

An Enjoyable Sail

With so many excursion steamers leaving Boston daily, it is sometimes difficult to choose which trip to take. For a short sail, however, one will make no mistake, the trip to Nahant or Bass Point is chosen. The opening of the Bass Point and Nahant season has attracted thousands of people for the sail on the "General Lincoln" and the "Governor Andrew."

Since the Bass Point line purchased these steamers from the Nantasket line, they have been altered and refitted and generally improved. With the improved boat service, the sail to Bass Point has become extremely popular. Bass Point itself has many attractions, not least among them the fish dinners that the hotels and restaurants are serving there.

The new location of the Bass Point line in Boston is at Otis Wharf, 408 Atlantic avenue, a few doors from the Rowe's Wharf elevated station.

Gloucester Round-Trips Popular

There is no doubt of the popularity of the Gloucester daily and Sunday round trips by the staunch steel steamship Cape Ann, which leaves her berth at the foot of the State street elevated stairs promptly at 10:15 every Sunday, and at 10 sharp on weekdays. It is pretty safe to follow the crowd at that time of day, for the people are nearly all headed for the north side of Central wharf, there to take the steamer trip up along the celebrated "North Shore Route" to the quaintly picturesque city from which the largest fishing fleets hail.

Taxes and Expenditure

Mr. Editor:

"About this time" as the Almanac says, look for complaints about the rate of taxation, guesses at the rate and congratulations that it has been kept at last years figures, but hardly a hint that only by increasing the valuation has it been kept within those figures.

Why would it not be a good plan to try a new system of keeping down our taxes? Why not try economy in some of our city departments?

If we consider where or in what department economy is to be used I shall assume that all are well managed, but in which direction can we cut down our expenses?

From the Auditors Report for 1906 the cost of our schools is $251,250.21 and where could there be any cutting of expense that would seem justifiable. Certainly not in the list of salaries which give to the Superintendent $4000, the Head master of the High School $3500, down to some teachers who receive only $200. Does that seem a large sum to pay for the education of our children and in a town where the expenses of living are very high?

The Police and Fire Department seem somewhat expensive and the salaries of the officers are large for the duties they perform, more than a $1000 a year to the patrolmen, almost as much as a 2d Lieut in the regular army gets!

The Water and Sewer Departments I cannot speak of—most of the expense in those departments is for interest on their construction; the service is good and of the first importance.

In regard to State Aid and Military Aid as well as the appropriation for Memorial Day I think there is question as to their propriety—especially for Memorial day.

The next Department that takes so large an amount out of our taxes is the Highway Department.

By the Auditor's Report of 1906 the net debt for Highways etc., is put at $1,324,578.00; the greater part for Washington street widening and then the large expense for the Boulevard or Commonwealth avenue. Of course it is too late now to criticize the Washington street widening but it would have been wiser for the city to have taken all the property and let the abutters find redress in the courts.

As for Commonwealth avenue, that is a "white elephant" that in time may be valuable and an ornament to the City, but at present it is of more importance and value to the Newton & Boston St. Railway and owners of "motor cars" than to the taxpayers generally.

The street railway too find it only of value during the few summer months and then to that large class who can appreciate "Norumbega Park."

The "motor cars" are mostly ridden by non residents, except the use that manufacturers make of it as a place to test the speed of their machines.

Under these circumstances why not be content to let the avenue alone merely keeping it safe, pay the interest on its cost and trust to time to bring a reward for the outlay upon it!

But see what is now being done to one portion of it, the part that by the city authorities is restricted to motor cars!

That part of it from near Chestnut street West Newton to some distance beyond Washington street well toward Auburndale is being repaired at a large expense for their use it would seem. It is true that the "motor cars" have injured the road very much but it was not unsafe or unfit for use and they are not entitled to any special consideration and they were restricted to that side of the road. Why not let things remain as they were? Was there any demand from the poor tax payers to have the repairs, the work now being done, saddled upon them? Then too the work of repairs in part was or is stupidly, foolishly done. For a long distance the surface of the road is skinned over with a thin coat of Portland Cement, which is all cracked up and broken into fine powder and makes a very disagreeable dust. If any thing was needed on the road way why could not the methods of the Metropolitan Park Commission be followed—springing with tar or as the City of Boston treats Commonwealth and Beacon streets?—not this expensive, this in part useless,—method be taken.

By whose authority was the work undertaken? Was there any order of the city authorities, or was it the unauthorized act of our Highway or Street Commissioner? The papers speak of Street Commissioner Ross doing this and so. When and what was the appropriation made and how large was it?

I cannot help the feeling that in our Street or Highway Department there is room for great economy. Why should not the salary of the Commissioner be cut down to an amount nearer to those of the heads of other departments. Why should he have two horses and also a "motor car"? Why should not the force that does the work be cut down, and a stop put to much work that belongs to the abutter—and as winter is coming on all Sunday work except in emergencies be given up? Why is it necessary to clean the crossings where only an inch or so of snow has fallen, and no side walks have been cleaned?

But I have said enough. I only want to call attention to what seems like extravagant and needless activity of some one in our Highway Department and to urge our Board of Aldermen to keep a closer control of that Department.

What I have written is not alone the opinion of one "kicker" but of very many H. I. B.

Literary Notes

Mr. Charles Clark Munn has placed with his publishers, Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co. of Boston, the manuscript of a new book, Boyhood Days on the Farm, which will be published November first with plentiful illustrations by Frank T. Merrill. This book is not a juvenile, but rather for all ages, and will be of particular interest to the many successful men who have passed a similar boyhood. Common sports and merrymakings, the pleasures of woods and waters, and the life of a country boy, with its tasks, enjoyments, and ambitions have never yet been so fully and impressively told as they will be found to be by Mr. Munn.

Base Ball

Quincy 7—Newton 6

After 13 innings of the fastest kind of base ball the Y. M. C. A. team was defeated by the Quincy club at Cabot Park on Monday morning by a score of 7 to 6.

Both teams scored a run in the opening inning and it seemed that the game was to be a slugging match, but the pitchers settled down to their work and after the first inning the hits were kept well scattered.

The best work for the Newton boys was done by Capt. Chase whose baserunning was the feature of the game. He twice stole 2nd and 3rd and in the 9th inning his superb slide to home base, after a fine bunt by Hanson, tied up the score and made the contest go to extra innings. Joe Howard pitched one of the headiest games of his career, for he was hit much harder than the score shows. In almost every inning the Quincy boys had men on bases, but when a safe hit meant one or more runs the batter was unable to get the ball out of the diamond and as a result the Quincy visitors had 12 men left on bases. Mileys work behind the bat and Bascoms first base play also deserve special mention.

For Quincy, the pitching and batting of Penley and the batting of Tupper were features.

On Sept. 7th the Telephone Co. will meet the Y. M. C. A. team on the South diamond at Cabot Park. This game was postponed from Labor Day afternoon and a warm contest can be expected.

On the North Diamond the Stanleys will meet the Empires for the 2nd game of their series.

The Stanleys were defeated by the Y. M. C. A. team on Sat. Aug. 31st by a score of 16-9. Each team has now won a game and the third will probably be played on Sept. 14th.

EYE TROUBLES

Consult absolutely free our Staff of Examining Opticians—regular physicians whose life has been and is devoted solely to curing Diseases of the Eye and correcting Errors of the Eyesight. It costs you no more to have these regular Eye Specialists treat your eye troubles and properly fit the necessary glasses to give you perfect eyesight—than if you went to an ordinary optician who by the laws of Massachusetts is forbidden from treating the eye other than setting and fitting glasses.
Our specialists diagnose your case. If you need glasses they will be made and furnished from our mechanical department. If you need medical treatment for the eyes it will be given by our physicians. We guarantee absolutely the very best and the latest methods in correcting any eye troubles or eyesight errors.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

The first regular session of the board of aldermen after the summer vacation took place Monday evening. President Carter was in the chair and Aldermen Bacon, Bosson, Bowen, Cabot, Condrin, Converse, Day, Doherty, Holmes, Jones, Lyons, Palmer, Stone, Underwood, Weston and White were present.

Hearings were held as follows:— On petition of D. S. Farnham to remove a tree on Beacon st and 4 trees on Lake avenue: E. W. Converse to remove a tree on Lombard st., C. A. Fitzgerald to remove a tree at 1355 Washington st., of Davis & Trudo to locate a steam boiler at 244 Church st., of the Telephone Co for attachments on Melrose st. for attachments on Winter st., for attachments on Ripley st., for attachments on Pine Ridge road, of the Gas Light Co for attachments on Ward st., Fuller st., Nahanton st., for underground conduits in Beacon st and for pole locations in Brookline, Dedham and Walnut sts, and at which no one appeared.

The hearing on petition of the Telephone Co for pole locations on Fairview st was on motion of Alderman Weston postponed until Sept. 23. A written remonstrance from G. E. Barrows was filed at the hearing on petition of the same Company to put poles in Glenwood avenue. At the hearing on petition of the Gas Co. for poles on Fuller st, Mr. G. Howard Frost appeared in favor of six poles but opposed the eleven poles as requested.

The hearing on petition of the Auburn Improvement Society for the purchase of about 52,000 feet of land on Grove and Central sts for park purposes was well attended about 25 prominent residents of that village being present.

Mr. George M. Fiske said: "The City of Newton, as we all know, has a most enviable reputation in a great many respects. It is sometimes called the Garden City, and well deserves its name. Our drinking water is of the purest, our streets are the very best that can be built, the Newton Boulevard, so called, is known far and near as one of the most beautiful avenues in this part of the country, our schools are of the highest grade, and as a whole the City of Newton is a most desirable place of residence. The city government has been liberal in appropriations of money for public improvements in the direction of playgrounds and parks as well as streets, and this is one of the things that has made Newton the beautiful city that it is today. This policy was adopted a good many years ago. As an illustration, I might speak of Newton Centre. Those of us who have lived in the city twenty-five or thirty years can remember the time when Newton Centre was just about as dead as Chelsea, there was nothing doing there, no movement in real estate, on one coming in there to live, and it was thought that it was asleep, but the people of Newton Centre began to wake up. They took their coats off and rolled up their sleeves and went to work to get things that would improve Newton Centre. One of the first things that was accomplished was the Circuit Road. They were not the only ones in this enterprise, but they did much towards pushing it. They organized their improvement society. They came down here to the city government and said, "Gentlemen, there is a tract of land in the middle of our village that we want to get for public park purposes, and if you will appropriate ten thousand dollars we will put our hands in our pockets and give ten thousand and buy this land for the city." And it was done. And this same thing has been done in other parts of the City and it is very much to the benefit of the City. Now we have come down here from Auburn-dale with a single proposition. There is a tract of land right in the centre of our village, adjoining our railroad station, and the Auburn-dale railroad station is one of the most beautiful in the City, the grounds were laid out by Mr. Olmstead. This piece of land must be sold to settle an estate, without any restrictions whatever, and we feel it will be very much for the benefit not only of the people of Auburn-dale but to the city in general to save that piece of land. It can be bought for $6000 and we are ready to pay one half of that sum. It is assessed for $8000 and we sincerely hope you can see it in the light we see it and that you will be willing to make this appropriation.

One argument that ward 4 has already a large area of park lands, larger than any other ward may be true, but there is an explanation. We have in Auburn-dale in the first place the Auburn-dale park on the river. At the time that was purchased the citizens of Auburn-dale contributed one half the purchase price. The City appropriated $3735 and we raised a like amount. At that time the Metropolitan Park as an improvement in this locality was not thought of. From Waltham to Upper Falls there was not one foot of the River bank which was open to the public excepting a little narrow passageway eight or ten feet, which ran from Islington street to the river. I think the strongest argument before the city government at that time was the fact that the people of Newton had no place to go on to the River on either side. On the opposite side a large tract of land had been purchased by a rich man and a wire fence was run along the bank and nobody could land there and the supposition was that before many years the land along the River would all be purchased and the public would be prevented from approaching the River and the strongest argument for that purchase of land was that it was for the benefit of the whole city of Newton.

There was another large tract of land purchased at Lower Falls, in Ward 4 but not Auburn-dale. This tract of land between Concord street and the River was purchased, not at the solicitation of the people of Auburn-dale nor of the people of Ward 4, but at the request of Mr. Hubbard of Weston to take that land at a very low valuation, and it was brought directly to the City Government and the purchase was made.

Outside of these two parks there is Islington Park, which has not cost the city anything.

The Lower Falls Park cost $4752 and the Auburn-dale Park off Islington street cost the City $3735 and that is all the City has paid for parks in Ward 4.

The Wolcott Park of something over half an acre has cost the City nothing. It was presented to the City by Mr. C. C. Barr and put in shape. I own the land adjoining this. For several years it was entirely neglected, and at my own expense I ploughed it, seeded it, put it in shape and took care of it for several years until the City finally took it up.

Then there is the Charles Wolcott Burr Park which was donated to the City by Miss Lucy Burr, there is .60 of an acre of land, which has cost the City nothing at all.

We feel we are justified in coming down here with this proposition and we hope you will see it as we do. I have heard rumors that we might get $2000 and while it might seem that half a loaf is better than no bread, it is not quite so in this case, as it is not an easy proposition to raise $3000 in Auburn-dale and if we had to raise $4000 the plan might drop entirely.

Mr. A. C. Farley: Ever since I have known Auburn-dale I have known that this particular lot of land was looked upon as a serious menace to the future of the City. Fully twenty years ago a number attempted to form an organization to carry out a method of coming into possession of that land in view of city ownership. They were well prepared to do it but they found the owner absolutely unapproachable. The figure he placed upon the land was something we could not consider for a minute and that very fact relieved the minds of the citizens of the Ward for some time, for it was manifest that if he would not sell to his neighbors or to the City that there would be no buyers, and that has been the salvation of the ward up to date. Two deaths in regard to the ownership of this land have brought it suddenly on the market and in a very different form. The immediate owner is not only agreeable but kind in disposition, from the fact that we can now secure it at a price below what the City places upon the land. With that in view we have felt that it was wise for us to be as prompt as we may, and therefore almost at a minute's notice we have secured a refusal of the land, putting up a forfeit in case the City does not secure it. What might become of the land in case it reverts back to the owner is suggested by what took place when it was secured by the Improvement Society. An auction was announced in the afternoon at which this land was to be sold. Among those who came to the auction with expectations of buying and building on it was one who proposed to buy that land for the purpose of a florist business. The location with reference to the Ward, situated on three of our most prominent streets, and immediately adjacent to our station, with a bridge which everybody who passes through Auburn-dale other than by the Boulevard has to cross immediately overhanging it, it would have given a black eye to Auburn-dale if it had passed to such a use. Not that the people of Auburn-dale have any disrespect for that particular kind of business, but like every other kind of business there are places where it should not be. All the business of Auburn-dale is done and will be done on the northerly side of the street, Auburn street, it would mean financial bankruptcy to anybody to bring business to the south side of Auburn street, but stores like the common run of fruit stores might locate here. The lot is unfortunately a little too close to the railroad station for first class residential purposes. Most anybody would like to be a little further from a railroad station. Now the utility of that land as a piece of city property is diversified. There are three ways in which it could be used, it can be ornamented as a park. It can be cut across by a street from the corner of Auburn and Grove streets, making a new access to the station, which would be a great convenience to the people who now have to go around it, or the two could be combined so it could be used as a playground.

The two lots of land that have been spoken of as public property in the Ward are both on the river bank, and neither of them have any particular account attached to them and never will have. One of them is two miles away from our village and should not be counted in it. The second was bought for a very different purpose and would be of great utility at the present moment for its original purpose had not the Metropolitan System, came forward with the very same idea, so that it is not as conspicuous as it was once for river bank purposes. The little lot of land on Islington Park is the only one that could be used for playground purposes and that is a matter of three quarters of a mile from the center of the village and very far from all the residents, and this is the only one that can be used for playground purposes. If you would climb up on the bridge and look down on this lot of land and imagine it instead of an open tract to be covered with three or four glass conservatories, as it is now surrounded by nice residences, I think you would sympathize with us, and agree that it should be owned by the City.

Mr. R. L. Bridgman: The point which has been assigned to me to cover in this petition is the point which relates to the making of a beauty spot and the benefit it would be to the City as well as to the Ward to have a place here of exceptional adornment. Mr. Fiske has set before you the temperament of the people which exists against its looking anything but a beauty spot, and now let me emphasize the fact of its central location. Here is something which will have an educational effect upon the entire public and the people who will be educated by it are much more numerous than those who have means of education of this sort in their possession already. If we have here a piece of land that is beautified by the locality and by the whole City it will have its effect upon the homes and lives of the people not only of Auburn-dale but also of the people who come to see it. It raises the character and tone of the citizenship, it brings people into the village. At our hearing here last Spring we had a concrete case, one of our citizens rose and said he came to Auburn-dale a stranger, got off at the station and was so favorably impressed by the prospect right there that he looked about the village and bought a house and is one of our permanent residents today. Other people from outside seeking residences there will be likely to be drawn into the City and take up property. From the point of view of development, such a spot in the centre of the village is valuable.

CITY HALL NOTES

The monthly report of the health board shows 33 deaths in this city in August, making the rate 10.54 against 11.18 in the corresponding month last year. With the exception of the month of May when the rate was 9.90 this is the smallest rate any month this year. The board reports that there are now on hand four cases of diphtheria, four of scarlet fever, one of typhoid and one of measles. There were 48 rooms disinfected during the past month.

It is seldom that City Clerk Kingsbury is called upon to issue a marriage license to a man of 18, but when Morton W. Pickering, a machinist of that age living in Halifax, N. S., declared several days ago that he had neither parents nor guardian and desired a license it became necessary to grant the request. Pickering gave the name of his intended bride as Mary B. McCulloch, aged 20, daughter of Hugh McCulloch of Halifax, and a resident of that city. Why they should come to his city to obtain a marriage license was a subject of considerable speculation.

Clubs and Lodges

Nanantum aerie 1665; Eagles, met Friday night and voted to hold regular sessions hereafter the first and third Fridays of each month. John J. Cronin reported for the committee on permanent headquarters that the present plans were maturing satisfactorily and that permanent quarters will soon be secured. Meanwhile the aerie will meet in Nanantum hall. It was voted to hold degree work Oct. 6, when between 40 and 50 candidates will be initiated.

Street Railway Notes

Commencing last Wednesday the winter schedule went into effect on the Boston & Worcester Street Railway. Practically the only change in time is the taking off of the fifteen minute cars between Worcester and Chestnut Hill. There are, however, three additional trips not scheduled on the new time tables which will be operated daily until further notice. The cars leaving Park Square, Boston at 7.15, 8.15 and 9.15 P. M. will run through to Worcester. The 7.55 and 8.55 P. M. trips leaving Worcester will run through to Boston. On Saturday afternoons and Sundays, until further notice, fifteen minute service between Worcester and Boston will be in effect.

Base Ball

In one of the roughest played games here this summer a team from division 4 of the New England Telephone & Telegraph company defeated Newton Y. M. C. A., 8 to 2, on the Cabot park diamond Saturday afternoon. The visitors gained a lead in the first inning owing to Newton's errors. The Y. M. C. A. players batted in good shape but it proved of little help. The telephone team got 7 hits and made 2 errors. The Y. M. C. A. team had 9 hits and 6 errors. Batteries—Loneragan and Falvey, Howard and Bartley. Umpires—Hurley and Bates.

Auto Wrecked Against Pole

Three young men had a very narrow escape from injury in a serious automobile accident shortly before midnight Tuesday night, on Commonwealth avenue near Prince street. The machine was owned by George Bascom, hotel Somerset, Boston, and ran into a post after first hitting a tree with such force that three wheels were smashed and the entire machine badly wrecked. That the three young men escaped with nothing more serious than a general shaking up is a matter of no little surprise.

The machine was proceeding toward Boston on the south side of the boulevard. Near Troy lane it took a curve all right, but opposite Prince street the steering gear failed to work properly, according to the young man who was driving, and the car cut a series of pranks. Failing to take a second curve it struck a tree a glancing blow, shot across the electric car tracks to the north side of the boulevard and then as suddenly turned sharp to the right and brought up against a trolley pole. Both wheels on the right side were smashed as was also the forward wheel on the left side. Other parts of the automobile were also badly smashed. The young men occupying the machine departed on the next electric car for Boston. A large piece of the trolley pole is gouged out where the automobile brought up against it.

Alleged Assault Case Appealed

Herbert F. Bent, a well known Watertown merchant, was in the police court Tuesday morning on a continued case charging assault upon the 3-year old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Feeley of Gardner street, this city. He was fined $25. An appeal was taken and he was held in $300. It was alleged that three years ago Feeley bought a quantity of furniture from Mr. Bent and failed to pay all the interest. July 18, it was testified, Mr. Bent and two men went to Feeley's house and started to move out the furniture over which there had been financial difficulty. It was during the moving, it was alleged, that the assault on the child occurred, she being knocked down.

Injured by Fall of Boom

A rope on a derrick at the new Crescent street school, Nanantum, broke Monday morning and the boom fell on to an Italian, Ramonah Tennio, 31 years old, injuring him so badly that he was taken to the Newton hospital in a serious condition.

About 7:50 the derrick was lifting a load when one of the ropes suddenly snapped. Tennio was standing on a staging. The boom struck him a glancing blow, throwing him down to the floor. One leg was broken, his nose crushed and other serious injuries inflicted. After being attended by a doctor he was removed to the hospital in the police ambulance. Tennio was employed as a mason's tender. His home is at 62 Northampton street, Boston.

Boy Knocked Down by Auto

A peculiar accident occurred in Waban Monday when John King, 9 year old son of Thomas H. King of 1317 Beacon street, was struck by an automobile and so severely bruised and shaken up that he was taken to the Newton hospital for treatment.

The lad was riding on the rear end of a provision wagon of Darrel & Waugh of Newton Centre. When the wagon went past his home in Waban he jumped off the tailboard into the path of an automobile. He was struck and knocked down. The driver of the automobile carried the boy to a doctor's office. After being attended by two physicians he was sent to the hospital. The automobile was numbered 19,740. It is stated that no blame is attached to the driver of the machine.

Funeral of Mrs. Pierce

The funeral of Mrs. Phebe Fessenden Pierce, who died at the age of 81 years, took place Tuesday afternoon at her late home, Knowles street, Newton Centre. There were many floral offerings. The service was conducted by Rev. Edward M. Noyes, pastor of the First Congregational church of Newton Centre, and Rev. H. J. Patrick, former pastor of the Second Congregational church West Newton. The remains were taken to Claremont, N. H., for burial. Mrs. Pierce was the wife of Edwin Pierce, and a daughter of the late Rev. Christopher March. She was a native of Sanford, Me., and had been a resident of this city about 25 years.

BEATEN AND ROBBED

Sunday Night Hold-up in West Newton

Daniel Hanley Victim of Gang of Youths

A gang of youths Sunday night held up Daniel Hanley of River street in a field in West Newton and after severely beating him took his watch and money. The assailants are believed to live either in West Newton or Waltham.

Hanley, who is about 23 years old, about 7:30 o'clock walked home from Waltham, where he is employed. He noticed a gang of about seven young men following some distance behind him, but paid little attention to them. When he started through a field for a short cut to his house, the police say, the gang sat upon him.

Hanley did his best to defend himself, but was soon powerless because of the number of assailants. He was kicked and beaten severely, particularly in the head and shoulders. After he had been rendered nearly unconscious the assailants took his watch and $6 in money from his pockets and left him lying in the field. When Hanley recovered sufficiently to walk to his home he reported the matter.

For some time there have been complaints that a gang of youths have frequently made trouble in the River-street district, but Sunday night's occurrence is the most serious yet reported. The police are determined to round up the principal offenders and bring them into court.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—It is a bill of star feature—Ford amusement for lovers of vaudeville at Keith's the coming week. Master Gabriel is to appear in his famous role of "Buster", in a new version of "Auntie's Visit", the sketch that gave so much pleasure both to the children and to the grown folks last season. Gabriel has his original company still with him, including George Ali in his famous part of "Spike" the dog. A big novelty feature will be Ned Wayburn's latest conception, "The Phantastic Phantoms", one of the cleverest productions in the way of original ideas in stage-craft that vaudeville has ever seen. Paul Conchas, "The Military Hercules", is to remain for a second week, a fact that will surprise none who have seen his truly wonderful performance during the present week. Belle Blanche, than whom there is no cleverer mimic and impersonator on the stage today, will return with some new imitations, notably one of Eva Tanguay. Avery and Hart, the successors of Williams and Walker in vaudeville, have some fresh songs and dances. They are the best pair of colored entertainers of the day. Linton and Lawrence, in a bright comedy; Friend and Downing, two comedians who have made a great stir in New York recently; Ralph Smalley, the favorite Boston "cellist"; Mullen and Corcelli, in a great acrobatic comedy turn; "Belle Voila, comedienne and dancer; Kurtis and Bess, a talking trained dog act; Larose and Frederic, in athletic feats on the wire; the Two Kings, singers and dancers, and the Kinetograph will complete the big bill.

Grand Opera House—Not in years has there been a melodrama produced as sensational as "Edna, The Pretty Type-writer", which comes to the Boston Grand Opera House next week. This is one of the latest plays produced by A. H. Woods, and that means that patrons of that popular playhouse will see a big scenic, well-acted drama. There are many sensational scenes crowded into this play according to the press reports in other papers of the country. The play is a story of business life in New York city, and although it contains many of the time-worn elements of melodrama, still it is given original treatment, and that is half the battle. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Political Jottings

The Independence league will hold a caucus Sept. 24 in this city for the purpose of electing delegates to the various state conventions and nominating three candidates for representatives. The party is entitled to choose delegates from the various wards as follows: Wards 1, 4, 6 and 7 one each and wards 2, 3 and 5 two each.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist; a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

H. I. B. Answered

The communication published in the last issue of the GRAPHIC signed "H. I.
B." is so full of misinformation, to state the matter charitably, that the true facts should be given equal publicity. H.
I. B. questions the propriety of the appropriations for State and Military Aid and for Memorial Day. State and Military Aid are required by the laws of the Commonwealth and enable assistance to be rendered to old soldiers and their families in a special manner to avoid pauperization. All money expended for State Aid moreover is refunded to the city. The $500 appropriated for Memorial Day to enable the veterans to suitably observe one of the most tender and beautiful holidays of the year may be questioned by "H. I. B." but I think is fully understood and approved by the taxpayers of this city.

"H. I. B.'s" suggestion that the cost of widening Washington street should have been greatly enlarged by taking all property and allowing the abutments to receive court damages is not consistent with the general tone of his article of keeping taxes down. To have taken other properties on the line of that expensive undertaking would have added something over $250,000 to the million already incurred and the experience of the city in settling land damages by the jury system has proved far from economical.

Commonwealth avenue is not a "white elephant" as "H. I. B." declares, but a valuable asset to the city and will be of incalculable benefit in the future. It has not only attracted many desirable residents to Newton, whose idea of the city was first obtained by a drive thru its winding beauties, but as a cold business proposition it is a source of considerable income at the present time. The city is charged $418,400 annually for sinking fund and interest on the half million loan incurred for this enterprise.
A careful computation was made some years ago by one of the Assistant Assessors to obtain the amount of increase in valuations along the line of the avenue, due to its construction. The increased valuations at the then current tax rate returned more than $50,000 annually to the city treasury, showing that the avenue is a most profitable investment.

While "H. I. B." is opposed to the use of the avenue by automobiles, most sensible people realize that the automobile is here to stay, that it will be a factor in the transportation of the future and that tirades against it will not stop its adoption as a means of transit. He also opposes repairs on the avenue made necessary by constant use, criticizes the methods of repairing adopted by the Street Commissioner and intimates that the work is being done without proper authority.

The repairing of the avenue was a necessity as it had nearly reached the point where the city would be liable for damages caused by accidents due to defects. This fact was thoroughly understood by the city government of last year and an item of $10,000 was included in the figures for 1907 as approved by the board of aldermen. The present board of aldermen has authorized the Street department from time to time to expend this money and so far as I can see the work has been duly authorized by the proper city officials. The methods of repairing adopted by Commissioner Ross may be proper subjects of criticism, but not on the ground of economy. The problem of providing a road surface which shall stand the test of automobile traffic has not yet been solved. It is still in the experimental stage. Mr. Ross has recognized that fact and has attempted to obtain this experience at the least cost to the city. A six inch coat of macadam, which under ordinary circumstances would have been laid down on Commonwealth avenue costs over 50 cents a square yard. The cement road bed which "H. I. B." so severely criticizes costs the city 7-13 cents a square yard and but 10,000 square yards have been laid. A portion of the Tarriva pavement was put down this summer at a cost of 11.15 cents a yard, while other portions which require resurfacing will cost about 35c
a yard, while the oiling method is done by contract at 6 cents a yard. These figures show that Commissioner Ross cannot be accused of extravagance and that automobile road beds are not as costly as "H. I. B." would have one believe.

Again "H. I. B." criticizes the Street Commissioner's salary and complains that he is allowed "two horses and a motor car." As a matter of fact the street department has two automobiles and one carriage for the use of its Commissioner and the City Paymaster. It may not have occurred to "H. I. B." that where high salaries are paid it is good policy for the city to give its officials the best and most rapid means of transportation in order to obtain as much service as possible for the salary paid. That is the view taken by the city government however and one which I believe is shared by the tax payers generally. As to the amount of salary paid the Street Commissioner the following work with the money appropriated for each class will give the best idea of the range of his duties. Maintenance of streets, $60,000;
work on drains, $26,500; sidewalks, $13,000; street watering, $17,000; exterminating moths, $14,000; care of stables, $8,000; removal of snow, $7,000; care of parks, $5,000; sewer maintenance, $11,- 500; sewer construction, $25,000; work on grade crossings, $31,000; care of street lights $52,500; removal of ashes, $15,000; and other less important matters involving a total expenditure of nearly $300,000, and for the proper use of which and the responsibility entailed, the city pays $3750, or less than one and one half percent. While comparisons are always odious, it is interesting to know that our neighboring cities pay for the same character of work about as follows:

Cambridge pays $5500 for three officials and places its street lights in charge of the city electrician. Somerville pays $5,900 and the city engineer takes care of the sewers and parks besides his other duties at a salary of $3,000 in addition to the above. Waltham pays $1700 and the city engineer at $2000 has charge of the sewer work. Brookline pays $3000 for its street superintendent, has its parks and ashes looked after by unpaid commissions, with foremen in actual charge of the work, and has its street lights in charge of its Supt. of Wires.

The criticism regarding removal of snow is so trivial as to be hardly worth reply and yet we believe that our citizens generally are not aware that the work of the snow plows in this city at every snow storm, would, if done in a straight line reach from here to Philadelphia. With over 200 miles of streets, mostly with double sidewalks, the department cannot wait for "an inch of snow" to fall before it begins its labors.

On investigation "H. I. B." will find that the "extravagant and needless activity" of the head of the Street department is the result of years of study of the demands and actual necessities of our own tax payers and has the approval of the many excellent business men who have honored the city as chief executives and members of its city government during the past fifteen years. I personally believe the results obtained are highly gratifying to the great majority of tax payers of the city.

James E. Cahill Dead

James E. Cahill, for about 20 years employed by the city in the street commissioner's department, died Tuesday night at his home, 1295 Boylston street, Newton Upper Falls, where he had long been a resident. Three sons and three daughters survive, they being James A., Joseph E., Fred A., Grace A., Frances
M. and Mae G. Cahill. Mr. Cahill also leaves a widow. The funeral took place this morning. Following services at the family home high requiem mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church. Burial was in Needham cemetery.

George I. Goodwin Dead

Mr. George Ichabod Goodwin died at his home in Newton, Monday morning, September ninth. He fell asleep in his chair peacefully and quietly as a child might fall asleep in his father's arms.

Mr. Goodwin was born in South Berwick, Maine, at the old Goodwin homestead, April 14, 1824, the son of Dr.
James S. and Hannah Gookin Goodwin, and grandson of Major General Ichabod Goodwin of Revolutionary fame.

Daniel Gookin, who is represented as standing by the side of John Eliot in the large West window of the Eliot church in Newton, was a direct ancestor, and it is interesting to note that the pastor of the Eliot church—Mr. Goodwin was a Congregationalist—officiated at the funeral.

Mr. Goodwin was a man of robust physique and of a disposition both gentle and lovable. He was an Odd Fellow of long years standing and made many friends.

A wife, who has been his stay for over fifty years, and a son, George Evans Goodwin, survive him.

His body rests in the old family lot in Saco, Maine.

"Father, in Thy gracious keeping Leave we now Thy servant sleeping."

Funeral services were held from his late residence on Jefferson street at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon and there was a large attendance of friends and relative and a profusion of flowers.
Rev. H. Grant Person of Eliot church officiated, assisted by Rev. John Matteson of the Church of the Messiah, Auburn, and the Odd Fellows ritual was read by officers of Newton Lodge 92.

NOMINATION PAPERS

Nomination papers for Representatives to the General Court and for delegates to the various conventions were filed with the Republican and Democratic city committees last Tuesday afternoon. The Republicans filed theirs with President Hatfield and Secretary Carter in the Masonic building, Newtonville, and the Democrats with President Dohererty at his residence 317 Watertown street, Nonantum.

The Republicans re-nominated Representatives John F. Lothrop, William F. Garcelon and Elias B. Bishop, while the democrats failed to make any nominations for this office. This deficiency will probably be remedied by the city committee at a later date.

No contests appeared in the Republican delegations save that for district attorney in ward six where the Scott and Higgins clans will clash. The senatorial delegates are said to be in favor of ex-alderman Dennison for senator, while the Hon. Seward W. Jones of Newton, will receive a unanimous renomination for the Governor's Council.

The Democrats are divided in their preferences for General Bartlett of Newton and Hon. Henry M. Whitney as their candidate for Governor. There will be several ward contests for this delegation, the city being entitled to 8.

The Republican lists are as follows:

Hylands.

The Independence league was scheduled to file nomination papers at 5 the same afternoon, but owing to errors in omissions in the list the filing was deferred until Saturday afternoon. Sec. J.

H. Christie stated that he expects a full set of nominations in every ward. The league has never filed nominations here.

Celebrated Silver Wedding

About 100 guests assembled in Dennison hall, Newtonville, last Friday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. E. Frank Pill-man of 20 Park place celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. A supper was served, after which dancing was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Pillman received many handsome pieces of silverware.

Pomroy Home

Pomroy Home has had "the time of its life." For seven weeks the children have enjoyed their first taste of real country and their appreciation of its delights, cannot be expressed. The free use of a large farm house and the freedom of the adjoining farm, was given them by Mr. John Fisher of Newton. Instead of looking upon us as intruders, the people of beautiful Lincoln treated us from the first with the greatest kindness; supplying the table with an abundance of fresh fruit and vegetables. The churches also extended to us a cordial welcome and did everything that Christian charity could suggest. The benefit, to body and mind, that the children have received, cannot be easily estimated and we wish to express to these kind friends our warmest gratitude.

Clara M. Hayes, Supt.

Pomroy Home, Sept. 10, 1907.

MANY IN SCHOOLS

Enrollment at High Water Mark
when all Pupils are Back

The public schools were opened Monday morning with an increased attendance over last year.

Until the new schools at Newton Highlands and Nonantum are ready for occupancy the schools in these districts will be considerably crowded. It is expected that the Newton Highlands school will be ready in January and the Nonantum school some time later.

While all the pupils were not back from vacations when the sessions opened, and some of them will not return for a week or more, it is estimated that the enrollment in all the schools will be about 7050, an increase of nearly 200 over last year. The enrollment in the high school is nearly 1000.

The average cost per pupil for a school year in this city is a little more than $41.

Clafin Guard Notes

Clafin guard, Co. C, 5th regt. M.V.M., resumed its regular drills in the armory Monday evening. Property of the company was arranged in the lockers for inspection after each drill. Capt. George F. Guilford issued notice that men who have not finished their qualifications should arrange to do so at once.

A meeting of the democratic city committee took place in Nonantum hall Sunday afternoon. It was expected that the committee would endorse one of the candidates for the democratic nomination for governor, but neither Gen.
Bartlett nor Mr. Whitney were given the support of the committee. The local situation was informally discussed, but no definite action was taken on any of the matters. The officers of the committee this year are Alderman William J.
Doherty president, Thomas M. Spelman

Tennis Tournament

The 5th annual championship singles tournament at the Waban Tennis Court was begun most auspiciously last Saturday afternoon, the large entry list, including most of the best players in the club, and the excellent weather made the opening all that could be desired. In the first round only two players defaulted, Fisher and Bosson, being unable to arrive home in time to participate. The other matches were all won easily by the higher class players. The second round was marked by two excellent matches, Turner vs. Whitaker taking the full quota of sets, and Parker vs. LeClear producing some brilliant tennis, the latter playing splendidly at first. In the semifinals Robinson fell an easy victim to the former champion who played in excellent form, while the former was way off his game. Dr. Parker now appears in clear line for the championship again. His play is marked by excellent judgment, sharp placing and perfect steadiness. Summary, First round, Whitaker beat Bosson by default; Turner beat Fisher by default; Blaney beat Farrington 6-1, 6-1; Strong beat W. M.
Buffum 6-0, 6-0; LeClear beat Williamson 6-2, 6-2; Parker beat Kimball 6-0, 6-0; Robinson beat Sawyer 6-1, 6-2, J.
C. Buffum beat Cherrington 6-3, 6-2.

Second round, Turner beat Whitaker
4-6, 6-3, 6-3; Strong beat Blaney 6-2, 6-2;
Parker beat LeClear 7-5, 6-2; Robinson beat J. C. Buffum 6-2, 6-3.

Third round, Parker beat Robinson
6-1, 6-1.

Automobile Accident

What just was not a very serious accident, occurred on Beacon street Waban early Monday morning as the little children were on their way to school. Joseph King, young son of the Thomas Kings of Beacon street dropped from a provision wagon on which he was hanging, and stepped directly in front of a large touring car. The machine was not moving rapidly but the mud guard struck the child with enough force to throw him heavily, and he sustained two severe gashes on the head and leg. He was temporarily cared for at Dr. L. W. Strong's office, and was later carried to the hospital, where he will be confined for two weeks at least, although his injuries are not dangerous.

This is the first real accident that has occurred in this locality but it serves to emphasize the crying need of some form of warning to auto drivers to use especial care on Beacon street between Chestnut street and Waban avenue, a stretch dangerous because of hidden cross roads and a sharp noll. Furthermore, about school time a large number of small children are constantly crossing this part of the street and some special protection for them is essential.

MRS. LOIS M. FARNUM

Mrs. Lois M. Farnum, aged 90 years and two months, died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Rockwood, 961 Beacon street, Newton Centre.
About three years ago she had a fall and fractured her hip. With this her health began to fail and for a few weeks before death she had been in a serious condition.

Mrs. Farnum was the widow of Joseph S. Farnum of Worcester, who was for many years cashier of a national bank in that city. She was a native of Upton, being daughter of Col. and Mrs.
Elijah Stoddard of that place. Col.
Stoddard was prominent in the early history of Upton.

For the past 30 years Mrs. Farnum had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Rockwood, in Brookline and Newton Centre. She was the oldest member of the First Congregational church. Two daughters survive, Mrs. F. E. Lancaster of Worcester and Mrs. Rockwood of Newton Centre, as well as four grandsons.

The funeral took place at 11:30 Wednesday morning at her late home, Rev.
Edward M. Noyes officiating. The remains were taken to Rural cemetery, Worcester for burial, there being a service at the grave by Rev. Dr. Andrew B. Chalmers, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church of Worcester.

Three More Letter Carriers

Postmaster Morgan yesterday received word from the department at Washington authorizing the appointment of three additional permanent letter carriers. Already the names of Hyman H. Gilfix, C.
J. Mehigan and John W. Foley have been sent on for confirmation. This will increase the permanent force to 41 carriers, which is an unusually large number for a city of Newton's population.
The appointments will take effect on Oct. 1. One new carrier will be assigned to Auburndale, one to Newtonville and one to Newton Centre. This will give increased delivery service in Auburndale and improve the present delivery service in the two other sections.

The DeMeritte School, 180 Boylston street, Boston, will begin its eighth year on Sept. 23. This school, from the beginning, has aimed to send out young men strong in mental training and strong in character. Boys who enter this school in the lower classes have a systematic training for College or the Scientific School, and earnest boys may thus save much time in preparation. All the pupils are striving to enter College or the Scientific School. Hence there exists an earnestness of purpose which results in habits of industry and self-reliance which are a safe foundation for the exacting work of the higher institutions.

A reception followed at the bride's residence, 221 Auburn street, Auburndale, which was decorated with ferns, palms and lilies in honor of the occasion. After a wedding trip to Europe Mr. and Mrs. Starr will be at home after Nov. 1st at Charlestown.

NEWTON MAN

One Mentioned for State Senator

Ex-Alderman Dennison a Candidate for Nomination

Mr. Charles S. Dennison of Newtonville has yielded to the strong arguments of prominent Republicans of this district and will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator. At a recent meeting of the Republican senatorial committee, the situation in this district was thoroughly canvassed and the need of a popular candidate decided upon. Mr. Dennison's name was mentioned at that time and his return from Maine and decision eagerly awaited.

Mr. Dennison is a native and life long resident of Newton, is treasurer of the Dennison Manufacturing Company with extensive factories at Framingham, which is also in this senatorial district, and is extremely popular in this city. He has served the city as alderman for some years and is now president of the Newton club. His nomination is a foregone certainty and his election over the present senator, the Hon. James H. Vahney of Watertown is generally conceded by the best informed Democrats.

OTIS T. PETTEE DEAD

Former Treasurer Gamewell Company Passed Away Suddenly

Mr. Otis T. Pettee, aged 54 years, a former well known business man of Newton Upper Falls, dropped dead Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Maria Bacon, 1185 Boylston street, that village. Death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. Pettee was for many years treasurer of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph company of the Upper Falls. About 10 years ago he retired from active business. He recently returned from a long sojourn in California, where he went for the benefit of his health.

His father, the late Otis Pettee, was for many years one of the owners of the large Saco & Pettee machine shops at the Upper Falls. His grandfather was one of the founders of the concern.

Mr. Pettee is survived by a wife. The funeral took place Monday afternoon in the chapel of the Newton cemetery, Rev. Walter Healy, pastor of the Upper Falls Methodist church, where Mr. Pettee long attended services, officiating. Burial was made in the Newton cemetery.

LOW WATER

Not Responsible for Sickness

In view of the alarm which has been caused by the continued low water in the Charles river we have interviewed several physicians in Auburndale, Lower and Upper Falls and are pleased to report that these gentlemen do not attribute the present increase of sickness to that cause. One physician said that the river had been lower this season than for several years and that the odor was unpleasant, but he thought the increase in bowel troubles during the past few weeks was more on account of the recent drought and weather conditions than to any other cause. He added the comforting opinion that the old malarial days, of which we once heard so much were gone forever and that there was but little malaria nowadays in Newton. While the low water might cause a miasmatic condition which would tend towards general debility he did not have a case at the present time which he could trace to the river. Another doctor, who has just returned from a vacation confirmed the statement that there was considerably less malaria than usual and also thought the climatic conditions responsible for whatever sickness was now prevalent. He urged the GRAPHIC to arouse a public sentiment which would compel the Metropolitan park commission to take proper care of the river banks and to eliminate the stagnant pools of water, where mosquitos are propagated. A third physician commented on the increase in bowel troubles, which he laid to food rather than water and which he said was not localized in Newton. In his opinion there was more malaria in the Upper Falls than last year, altho he thought it due to the careless and unclean habits of the working classes among whom it was prevalent.

CITY HALL NOTES

Miss Elizabeth I. Hyde, whose marriage is to take place next week, resigned her position here Friday last.

Chief W. B. Randlett of the fire department has a new automobile, being the third machine that has been used in the fire department in this city. There is agitation for an automobile for the police department for use in emergency cases.

Burial of Frank Jordan, who died in Boston at the age of 48 years, was made Monday in Mt. Feake cemetery, Waltham. Mr. Jordan was a former resident of this city. For several years he was employed in the assessors' department, prior to the reorganization of the department.

It is announced that there is a marked deficiency in the receipt for dog licenses, which is not wholly accounted for by dogs disposed of during the recent mad dog scare. The police have been notified this week to canvas their routes to find out if all dogs are licensed.

Miss Kathleen Nolan of Watertown street, West Newton, has been appointed stenographer in the police department to succeed Miss Frances Fitzgerald. Miss Fitzgerald goes to the office of Street Commissioner Ross, where she succeeds Miss Elizabeth I. Hyde.

City Messenger Joseph D. Wellington completed his thirtieth year as City Messenger last Tuesday having been first appointed Sept. 10, 1877. Mr. Wellington's term of service in one position is only equalled by City Auditor Benjamin F. Otis who was first elected in January 1876.

The tax bills will be sent out next Monday.

BENTON--HADDOCK

Auburndale Young Woman Married in Portland, Me.

The wedding of an esteemed young woman of Auburndale and a Boston young man in Portland, Me., Aug. 22, became known to friends of the couple in Auburndale for the first time when announcements were received this week. The bride was Miss Helen Haddock and the groom was Mr. Joseph S. Benton. News of their marriage was received with a great deal of surprise, for the young people had succeeded in keeping the affair a secret from many friends.

Miss Haddock is the daughter of Rev. F. C. Haddock, pastor of the Auburndale Methodist church. She is a popular young woman, 19 years old, and is an accomplished musician. She is fond of outdoor sports, especially rowing. The groom is a resident of West Newton, and is employed as a clerk in a large Boston book store. The wedding took place in Portland, and was performed by Rev. Henry E. Kloman, rector of St. Stephen's church of that city, according to the announcements. Mr. Benton was for several seasons a vacationist at Brunswick, Me., when the bride's father was pastor of a church before coming to Auburndale. Announcements were sent to friends in that place.

Lieut. Gov. Draper's Public Service

While Republicans are complimenting Lieut. Gov. Draper upon the success that he has obtained while serving the State as Lieutenant Governor, they should not overlook the fact that his more recent service is not the only service he has rendered to his party or his State. We recall the eventful days preliminary to the Presidential election of 1896, when many of the leaders in the Republican party were in doubt as to the stand the party should take upon the great financial problems of that time. Mr. Draper was then chairman of the Massachusetts Delegation to the National Republican Convention, and it was he who called the numerous conferences of the strongest men in the party, and insisted that the party should take no backward step, but on the contrary, should take a bold stand in favor of the gold standard, and later accomplished his purpose after a most stubborn fight. The soundness of his position and the effort he made to bring success to the cause of sound finance, is his greatest achievement. Today those who were opposed to his views admit the soundness of his position, and the alluring question of finance is no longer a disturbing factor in politics.—Lynn Item.

THEATRES

Orpheum Theatre—The Orpheum, with its large seating capacity, has come to be recognized as the great, popular vaudeville house of Boston. For next week's bill Conway's famous band, from Lithuania, which was the musical sensation of Atlantic City, has been secured. Mary Ann Brown, the English comedienne, who broke in like a meteor on New York with her character impersonations, and carried the vaudeville patrons by storm, will make her first Boston appearance at the Orpheum. For the children, and grown-ups as well, Marzella, the queen of the feathered world has been secured. This is without question one of the greatest acts of the kind ever imported, with performing cockatoos, pigeons, parrots and giant ravens, a whole stage full.

Tremont Theatre—Klaw & Erlanger's Advanced Vaudeville at the Tremont Theatre might appropriately be likened to some tremendous machine, and all machinery needs to work for a while to be operative at its best. It is the purpose of Klaw & Erlanger to improve each succeeding bill if it is within the bounds of possibility. The bills presented will contain the most distinct variety of acts, and the offerings will be in the nature of a complete and symmetrical performance. There will be no acts on Klaw & Erlanger's Advanced Vaudeville circuit to serve only as fillers and time consumers. Every act will be a headliner, and the people will have two hours of real entertainment instead of having to wait the greater part of the time for a few minutes of real enjoyment. Klaw & Erlanger have set and will maintain the highest possible standard of achievement which means a remodeling and uplifting generally of vaudeville in America.

The Great Tragedy of His Life

Francis Murphy was born in Ireland, April 24, 1836, and came to this country when sixteen years of age. Addicted to the fatal drink habit, and violent when intemperate, he was constantly in the grip of the law for some overt act. When proprietor of a small hotel in Portland, Me., he was placed on trial for his life on the charge of killing a man by pushing him downstairs. The case was hard fought on both sides, and the jury returned the verdict of "not guilty of murder, but guilty of manslaughter." When brought into the court to be sentenced Murphy made his first public speech. He told the story of his life with such eloquence that there were few dry eyes in the court-room when he was finished. He was given the remarkably light sentence of two months.

He went from jail to the Allen Mission in Portland, where he made an impassioned temperance speech. It was from this little start that he became one of the greatest temperance orators of the world, and traveled the country over telling the story of his life. In 1881 and 1882 he made a triumphal tour of Great Britain, his work in the temperance cause being endorsed by Queen Victoria, Gladstone, Cardinal Manning and other distinguished persons. Over 900,000 people signed the temperance pledge there.

"It was in 1870 that I had my awakening—that I was born again, blessed be God. God helping me, I have stood true to my pledge all these years, though before this time I had gone to the extreme of poverty, wretchedness and suffering. The miracle of it all to me is that God enabled me, an ignorant young Irishman, with no education or training, to stand up and tell my story so that people would listen to it."—This was the story he often told.

Big, white-haired and ruddy-faced, Mr. Murphy was an admirable specimen of a reformed man. A magnetism in his make-up irresistibly drew men to him, especially those who had had similar experiences to his own. He was a great personal friend of President McKinley and also of Reed and Blaine. He married Elizabeth J. Ginn of New York. He served in the Union Army during the Civil War.

Few are the men of his generation who have achieved so much in helping men to reform from the slavish habit of intoxicating drink. All honor to his memory. Grief for him will be world-wide, deep and personal.

State Prohibition for Georgia

July 30th, the Lower House of the Georgia General Assembly passed a State Prohibition Law by a vote of 139 to 39—100 majority for Prohibition. The bill had already passed the Georgia State Senate on July 13th by a vote of 34 to 8—26 majority.

All day long the Capitol grounds and corridors were thronged with Woman's Christian Temperance Union women. As soon as the final vote was taken the great crowd burst into "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Enthusiastic men lifted to their shoulders Seaborn Wright, the Prohibition leader in the lower house and marched through the Capitol singing "Gloria in Excelsis." Several large distilleries will be closed and also breweries. The Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. of this state have pressed an aggressive campaign for months for State Prohibition and have finally been successful.

The far reaching influence of this action by the Georgia Legislature is hard to estimate. It will give a tremendous impetus for State Prohibition in all the Southern States especially in those states where there are left but few remaining License Counties, such as Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, North and South Carolina.

Newspapers as Liquor Sellers

It is an encouraging sign that many of our leading papers and magazines are refusing to advertise liquors or patent medicines. This is the stand taken by "McClure's," "Munsey's," "Everybody's," "The Ladies Home Journal," "Collier's Weekly," "The Century," "The Saturday Evening Post" and many others. There are said to be 700 papers in Kansas that refuse whiskey or beer advertising. "The Ledger" of Murray, Ky., makes no claim to sanctification, but when a saloon-keeper tells us that a $6 advertisement in the "Ledger" has sold for him $1200 worth of whiskey, it makes us feel that we have been in a small measure responsible for the damage done and we promise to sin no more.

Only Four License Places in Tennessee

Robert H. Eleazer, secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of Clarksville, Tenn., says that only three cities and one small town in the entire state now grant licenses for the sale of liquor. Eighty-nine per cent of the population live in prohibition territory.

A Livingston, Mo., county farmer reports that while driving home during a storm recently the wind lifted his whole outfit over a barb wire fence. Neither he nor the horses suffered injury and the buggy was not damaged.

The Danger of Soap.

When a man goes to some thermal springs to "boil out" all the old Satan that is in him he quickly learns one of the more important lessons of life and civilization—that is, he acquires a supreme contempt for soap. When he takes his first tub, at 80 to 102 degrees, the attendant gives him a terrible scrubbing, using a sharp soap and a loofa. After that first bath no more soap is used. The man continues to soak daily in water of the same temperature for twenty minutes and is rubbed with the loofa, but no soap. "Soap," the expert attendant will tell you, "clogs up the pores of the skin. Our object is to keep 'em open. We cure all diseases by giving the pores a chance to breathe and excrete." Your hands chap? Wherefore? Because when you last washed them you neglected to rinse them thoroughly. You left the pores clogged with soap. Your complexion is muddy. Wherefore? You forgot to use the soap off your cheeks. Hereafter rinse, rinse, rinse. Keep on rinsing. Continually rinse.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Grotesque Spanish Honor.

There is a story about the Duke of Wellington that illustrates the fantastic idea of honor held by many Spaniards, contrasted with the practical common sense of Englishmen. When the duke was co-operating with the Spanish army in the peninsula against Napoleon he was desirous on one occasion during a general engagement that the general commanding the Spanish contingent should execute a certain movement on the field. He communicated the wish to the Spaniard personally and was somewhat taken aback to be told that the honor of the king of Spain and his army would compel him to refuse the request unless Wellington, as a foreign officer graciously permitted to exist and fight on Spanish soil, should present the petition on his knees. The old duke often used to tell the story afterward, and he would say, "Now, I was extremely anxious to have the movement executed, and I didn't care a twopenny damn about getting on my knees, so down I jumped!"

A Dog and His Name.

"There was a dog case which excited much attention in Berlin some years ago," said a former resident of that city. "A citizen complained to the authorities against a neighbor who, he said, to annoy him, gave his name to a mongrel cur. 'He calls my name,' he said, 'and when I turn around he laughs and says he was calling his dog.'"

"What's your name?" asked the magistrate.

"My name is Schultz."

"And do you call the dog Schultz?" he asked the other man.

"Yes, your honor, but I spell it with a T—Schultz."

"Call him without the T," commanded the magistrate, trying to look serious. The man did so, the dog came to him and an order to change the name or be fined followed."

The Water Bottle's Shape.

Three useful purposes—and probably many more than three—are served by making the familiar water bottle of such a distinctive pattern. In the first place the narrowness of the neck prevents the entry of much dust that would inevitably settle on the water were the entire surface exposed; in the next place the same narrowness prevents excessive and rapid evaporation of the water, and in the third place the shape of the neck makes it a capital handle, thus doing away with the necessity for a separate handle fastened to the body of the bottle, a course that would render it much less convenient and more liable to be broken.—Pearson's.

The Sequel to the Joke.

Many years ago a visitor to Edinburgh was being shown over the high court of justice. He made some remark concerning the dock and its duties, and in reply the official jokingly said the visitor might one day be sentenced to be hanged in that very room. The sightseer was the notorious Dr. Pritchard. Two years had barely passed when in the dock he had so closely inspected he was doomed to death for poisoning his wife and mother-in-law.

A Superior Brand.

Mrs. Jenkins—My little boy's got the measles.
Mrs. Tomkins—So has mine; he got it from the grocer's children.
Mrs. Jenkins (disdainfully)—Oh, my little boy got it from the clergyman's children.—London Tit-Bits.

The Visible Signs.

"The Golfs have been doing some mountain climbing in Switzerland."
"There! Guessed it the minute I set eyes on them the other day."
"How could you tell?"
"They had such a peaked look about them."—Baltimore American.

The Art of Talking Back.

"I hardly know how to answer you," said she when the widower proposed.
"I would not let that worry me," said he soothingly. "That is something a woman learns perfectly soon after marriage."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Support.

Teacher—Who was it supported the world upon his shoulders? Tommy—Atlas, sir. Teacher—Who supported Atlas? Tommy—The book don't say, but I 'spect his wife did.

That is the best government which desires to make people happy and knows how to make them happy.—Muculay.

PARISH PARTIES

Upper and Lower Falls Celebrations

Many See New Hose Coupling Record Made

Prettily decorated booths presided over by young women and sports for boys and girls were features of the eighth annual lawn party of the parishes of St. Mary's church, Newton Upper Falls, and St. Joseph's church, Needham, held Saturday afternoon and evening, off Chestnut street, Newton Upper Falls, having been postponed from Labor day.

The attendance was fully up to the average of the past few years, and the parishes will reap a substantial financial benefit from the project. Dancing was enjoyed by many young people on a floor erected especially for the day. There was music by an orchestra.

The general committee of arrangements included Edward Begley, John Campbell, James E. Connors, Mark V. Croker, Charles Donahue, Peter Foley, John H. Fitzgerald, James Freeman, Thomas Gahagan, Andrew Hughes, Daniel Hogan, Thomas Kenefick, Thomas J. Leach, Jeremiah Mahoney, William P. Meehan, Thomas F. Meskill, Dr. William H. McOwen, John Motherway, James Mulcahey, Stephen McDonald, Michael Murphy, John Nolan, James Shine, John F. Slattery, Bernard Smith, John H. Ryan, Constance Wagner, Michael Prendergast, James J. Ryan, Joseph J. Warren and John Kenefick.

ST. JOHN'S CARNIVAL.

Fair weather favored the postponed carnival of St. John's parish, Lower Falls, Friday and Saturday evenings. On both nights the attendance was large.

One of the principal attractions scheduled was Timothy J. Coffey, recognized as the champion tug-of-war man of the country, who offered to pull against any four men. He was on hand both nights but a team could not be picked to test its strength against him. Several jostling contests were features of Friday night's events. In the first contest Kelley and Slade of South Framingham defeated all other teams, establishing a new record of 12 4-5 seconds, the best time having previously been made anywhere in New England, it was stated, having been 13 1-5 seconds.

The men lay flat on cot beds with only their under clothing on. At the sound of an alarm they dressed, laid 50 feet of hose, placing a gate on one end and connecting the other end to a hydrant. Simond and Gowing of Woburn took second place in 13 1-5 seconds, while Pond and Foley of Natick were third in 13 3-5 seconds.

Both nights a vaudeville performance was given by professional talent, and there were the usual other attractions.

Tug-of-war contests between a number of teams of this vicinity took place Saturday night, Natick carrying off the honors. In the first contest the John Boyle O'Reilly team of Charlestown won from the Brookline team by 1-2 inch. Natick then beat the Independents by 3-4 inch. The Rovers of Natick defeated the Lower Falls team by 2 inches. In a final match Natick and Brookline had several tries, each of which resulted in a tie.

The athletic green Saturday night was illuminated by electric lights, and the following sports were run off:

High jump—Won by Robert Colliton. Height 5 ft 2 in.

Standing broad jump—Won by James Ryan. Distance 8 ft 1 in.

Running high jump—Won by Thomas Henley. Height 5 ft 2 in.

Hop, skip and jump—Won by Thomas Henley. Distance 37 feet.

100-yard dash—Won by Robert Colliton. No time taken.

HOPEDALE ALL RIGHT

Town and Draper Co. Are Valuable Assets of State

The people of our State are beginning to realize that the town of Hopedale and the Draper Company are not such a public menace as was pictured last fall. This is always the case when the people take time to differentiate truth from slander. The fact that Eben S. Draper, one of the proprietors of this great enterprise, was a candidate for an important state office, was the real cause for the misguided attack upon a town that has no superior in all New England. Those who are intelligent enough to comprehend the value of Massachusetts industries, know full well that the Draper Co., from its inception to the present time, has been, and is a most valuable asset to the State and its people, and no one man has been more conspicuous in the development of this great industry than the Lieutenant Governor, and this ought not to be considered a crime in this intelligent age.—Fall River Herald.

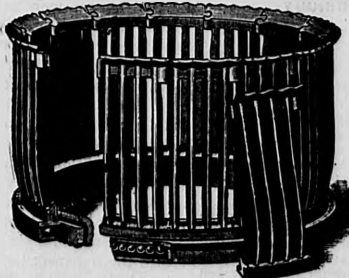

Funeral of G. W. Bail

Many friends gathered to pay last tributes to George W. Bail, a well-known South Boston business man for many years, at his funeral which took place at 3:15 Sunday afternoon at his late home, 1023 Walnut street, Newton Highlands. The service was conducted by Dr. George T. Smart, pastor of the Newton Highlands Congregational church. There were selections by the Harvard quartet. The floral offerings were many and handsome. Burial was in Newton cemetery. Mr. Bail was 30 years in the coal business in South Boston, but for 15 years had lived in this city. He was a member of St. Paul's lodge, A. F. & A. M., and the Knights of Honor. Members of these organizations as well as former pupils of the old Hawes school, of which he was a graduate, attended the funeral.

GEORGE W. CHADWICK, Director
Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass.
OPENS SEPTEMBER 19th

No school in this country can contribute as much toward a musical education as the New England Conservatory of Music.

Every department under special masters.
Pianoforte, Organ, Orchestral Instruments and Vocal Music Courses are supplemented by such other branches as Composition, History of Music, Theory, Literature, Dictation, Choir Training, Plain-song accompaniment, Practical Pianoforte Tuning Course in one year. The Normal Department trains for intelligent and practical teaching in conformity with Conservatory methods.

The free privileges of lectures, concerts and recitals, the opportunities of ensemble practice, and appearing before audiences, and the daily associations are invaluable advantages to the music student.

A NUMBER OF FREE SCHOLARSHIPS in the Violin Department will be granted for the coming school year.

The management takes pleasure in announcing the engagement of TIMOTHY ADAMOWSKI as a member of the Violin Faculty, and SIGNORE RICCARDO LUCCHESI as a member of the Vocal Faculty.

For particulars and year book, address RALPH L. FLANDERS, Manager.

FISH EN COQUILLE.

Remnants of boiled or baked fish, especially haddock, cod or any white fish, are often thrown away; but they can be made into an acceptable dish for luncheon. Make a sauce from one cup of milk, two level tablespoons each of flour and butter, and season with salt and pepper. Place the cooked fish and mix with it enough sauce to moisten. Butter scallop shells and fill with the fish, then sprinkle with cracker or bread crumbs that have been moistened with butter. Set the shells on a tin pan and place in a hot oven until the crumbs have browned; serve hot.

The baking shells are useful for all sorts of escalloped dishes, but are especially appropriate for fish, oysters or macaroni. Remember that twice cooked food is liable to be over-cooked and less digestible, so anything which is served in this way must either be partially cooked the first time or subjected to a quick, high temperature at the re-heating.

The fish may also be heated in individual fireproof baking dishes or in a large dish.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

uable. It is done by the public and it draws out the interest of the people who have contributed. The motto of the Auburndale Improvement Society is to get for the village what will encourage a better public spirit. It is in the line of public development. The state and other cities are setting apart similar parks for the public benefit. The State has its reservations in all parts, which are for the general benefit of the State as a whole as well as of benefit to each particular locality. We make the point that this will be for the benefit of the city as a whole just as it is for the benefit of the State as a whole to have its Greylock and Blue Hill Reservations, its Nantasket Beach and Revere Beach Reservations. It is in the line of the public policy of the State and of other Improvement Societies. And too public sentiment in our city and in other cities and in the State supports this policy. As far as I know I have not heard any criticism of taking of pieces of land for public purposes. I believe the public sentiment of the people will support an appropriation of $3000 which we ask in order to enable us to procure this for Auburndale and for the City as a whole.

An order establishing the usual pay for Election officers was adopted and the bond of Charles Scipione as Constable with the American Surety Co as surety was approved.

Adjournment at 9.47 was made to Sept. 23rd.

Commendation for Lieut. Gov Draper

The words of commendation that are being handed out to Lieut. Gov. Draper were not unlooked for by those who have been associated with him in years past. For a number of years, Mr. Draper has been first and foremost in about every undertaking of a public character. His services at the head of the Volunteer Aid Association, during the Spanish War, displayed the real character of the man. His incessant work in raising funds, purchasing and fitting up a hospital ship to care for the Massachusetts soldiers, and the relief work at Montauk will never be forgotten by the unfortunate sufferers who received the best care and attention that money could afford. It is well known that it was through Mr. Draper's foresight that the hospital ship was disposed of at the close of the war, and the money that was received has been used to care for those who were afflicted permanently, and their dependants. It was a humane work for a humane purpose. In this, Mr. Draper applied the same business methods as he always does in every undertaking that is committed to his charge—Fitchburg Sentinel.

It is expected that the series of free concerts will be made a permanent fixture each season hereafter.

—Twenty inches in length, nine in depth and fifteen in circumference were the measurements of the five-pound small mouthed black bass that tested the skill and tackle of an angler on the Charles river several days ago. This fine prize fisher was killed by Charles H. Sadler, who has charge of the H. A. A. boat house and grounds at Riverside, after a battle of several minutes, during which time the bass plunged and sulked, walloped out at the surface and threw several high jumps before he had exhausted his energies and was landed safely on the boathouse float. It is not often that a bass of this size is taken in the Charles, but occasionally some very good ones respond when anglers who know where to look for them drop a line.

Burdett College

The annual session of the Burdett Night School will begin on Monday evening, October 7. Two years ago, President Burdett announced through the columns of the daily press that while the regular tuition at Burdett College would be $5.00 per month for the evening classes, a Special Offer of $15.00, payable in advance, for The Entire Six Months' Course would be made. The College was so well known that hundreds took advantage of this extraordinary opportunity to gain considerable knowledge at a very moderate cost. Last year the offer was repeated with gratifying results and it is made again this year. The sessions will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week from seven until nine o'clock, and students can elect either the Book-keeping, Shorthand or Touch Typewriting Course.

WAYS OF PURCHASE

State Control of the Boston & Albany

Commonwealth has two Methods Available

The question of state purchase of the Boston and Albany railroad is interesting many daily patrons of the road living in the Newtons.

The failure of the lessee company properly or tolerably to manage the property and growing evidence of its weariness with the bargain, again forces this question upon the commonwealth's attention. Modified to the degree of admitting state purchase with lease for comparatively short periods of time to a competent operating company the question becomes one worthy of practical consideration.

This is not a radical proposition for the state of Massachusetts, says the Framingham Tribune. The commonwealth has consistently held the position from the beginning that railroads are essentially public agencies exercised by private corporations in trust, as it were, for the public. This is especially shown by the fact that the commonwealth has kept the way wide open for public ownership of its railroads.

The law provides two alternative methods of state purchase of any railroad property. The first is as follows:

The commonwealth may, at any time during the continuance of the charter of a railroad corporation after the expiration of twenty years from the opening of its road for use, purchase of the corporation its road and all its franchise, property, rights and privileges by paying therefor such amount as will reimburse to it the amount of capital paid in, with a net profit thereon of ten per cent. a year from the time of the payment thereof by the stockholders to the time of the purchase.

Many more than twenty years have expired since the consolidation of the connecting lines from Boston to Albany into the Boston and Albany corporation; and this method therefore becomes available.

What would the property cost if acquired in this manner? The consolidation goes back practically to 1867. The present capital stock is $25,000,000 par value, which would be the base figure upon which to reckon. The stock capital has remained at that figure since and including 1892, a period of sixteen years. The stockholders have received eight per cent. throughout, leaving two per cent. per year, of $8,000,000, to be added to the $25,000,000. From 1874 to 1891 inclusive, a period of eighteen years, the stock capital was $20,000,000. During fifteen of these years eight per cent. was paid, leaving two per cent. per year, or $6,000,000 in all to be added further in making up the purchase price. In 1876, nine per cent. dividends were paid, leaving one per cent. on $20,000,000, or $2,000,000, to be added to the purchase price. During the other and earlier years of the life of the Boston and Albany corporation ten per cent. was paid—on the $20,000,000 of stock after 1873 as well as on the smaller stock capital before then, leaving nothing to be made good by the state on the score of dividends.

Adding to the base price of $25,000,000 the sums of $8,000,000, $6,000,000 and $20,000,000 noted above, we have a total of $39,000,000, or approximately $40,000,000 as the price by which the state could legally acquire possession of the property and franchises, subject to the existing bonded debt of some $8,500,000. Thus in round figures the property and franchises, free of all incumbrances, would cost the state by this method of valuation say $50,000,000—a very generous figure, since no allowance has been made for the income from $5,500,000 in New York Central 3 1/2 per cent. bonds received by the Boston and Albany company for certain detached property of the corporation at the time of the lease.

The second method of purchase is as follows:

The commonwealth may, at any time after one year's notice in writing to a railroad corporation, take and possess its road, franchise and other property, and shall pay therefor such compensation as may be awarded by the commissioners, who shall be appointed by the supreme judicial court, who shall be sworn to appraise the same justly and fairly, and who shall estimate and determine all damages sustained by it by such taking.

Evidently such an appraisal may include franchise value as well as the value of the physical property. In that case the valuation of the stock ownership would approximate the market value of the stock. This has been as high as above $250 per share since the lease, but has lately been under $220.

At the latter rate the road would cost $55,000,000, plus the debt of $8,500,000, or $63,500,000, free of incumbrance, to be compared with the $50,000,000 or less involved in the purchase by the other method. While the state has this cheaper method at its disposal it will be generally agreed that no effort should be made to drive a hard bargain with stockholders who have invested their money in good faith and been permitted by the state for many years to receive handsome returns upon its more or less assurance that this situation might continue indefinitely. But the possession by the state of a cheaper method of purchase should incline the stock ownership to a liberal disposition and a price not over $60,000,000 might possibly be agreed upon.

Assuming that to be the price, the state, even in these times of higher prices for capital, could probably make the purchase with an equal amount of its 3 1/2 per cent bonds, which would involve an interest charge of $2,100,000 yearly. But the property is now earning a net income above all other charges, outside of the bond interest and stock dividends, of some $2,500,000. And it will admit of little question that this might be improved upon by a progressive, efficient and liberally economical management, which the property does not now have. Hence the easy possibility of leasing the road on state account for a rental equal to the total interest charge on the purchase debt, together with a substantial sinking fund payment to the state.

This is a suggestion which might seem to be worthy of consideration over the commonwealth.

More and Better Ice Demanded

Editor NEWTON GRAPHIC:

As I have, have the many of your subscribers who daily take ice from the carts that supply Newtonville, and nearby patrons with ice cut at Crystal Lake (so called) noticed the general dirtiness of same? Having given it careful watching, I find specks of dirt, dust, or else in its best and crystal part. Even the men distributing it do not seem to know just how it gets there. It cannot come from the bed of the pond, for while freezing it distills itself and frees it from debris. It gets there otherwise! Now as the Newton Board of Health is quite gentle and the people have read of nothing in your paper of their finding out any unhealthiness in 1906-7 ice crop, it naturally follows that the visible dirt in the ice is of good report and drink, and fit for the sick and the strong and well.

So let us say nothing and drink to the prosperity of the ice firm that collect its bills from the gentle and lady like customers. As I have dear Editor, so can the Newtonians take a piece of the ice itself, find the small and larger black specks and dig them out (a mite difficult) and then chew them between teeth and palate, and readily and easily one can detect the grit and burnt coal taste (a harmless test) most evidently, proving that the great number of railroad engines skirting the so called Crystal lake, belch forth enough coal dust into the air as to find its way onto the ice while freezing is going on, getting imbedded in the frozen water as the grit sinks, lower and lower into the ice body. This is a personal discovery and I defy the B'd Health to disprove it. And I don't say 'tis bad drink—but I do dislike to add to my wine, lemonade or old spirits and feel that I wish I were in some Boston Hotel, quaffing pure artificial ice and thereby avoiding burnt soft coal slag. Now just as long as ice customers will drink the stuff and be pleased just so long will they find a purveyor singly or doubly. Let us suppose that Crystal Lake is in need of thorough scraping and cleansing. Happy thought! How soon will highly intellectual, wealthy and handsome, "The Newtons" agitate for and subscribe to a Manufacturing Artificial Ice Company that will distill truly its own aqua, and rival many a small and unrich city now gaining headway all over the States? Will some of your friends Mr. Editor help in this matter and give opinions in your valuable family newspaper? Somehow I fear (my fate) that the coming winter of 1907 and 8 is to be a mild affair as to freezing, and Newton (all) don't want to become victims of ice kings. Her people have tested the thumb-screws of the Coal-Barons. Let us freeze our own ice demanding purity and honest deal.

Sufferer.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet at the Association Building on Wednesday Sept. 25th at 3 p. m. As this is the first meeting after the summer vacation a large attendance is desired. Plans for the seasons work will be discussed.

To the Board of Directors

Young Men's Christian Association Newton, Mass.

Dear Brethren:—

While battling with a conviction that I ought to withdraw from the office of President of the Association, I allowed my name to be used again and found myself elected for the sixth consecutive year.

Unable to give the attention required from such an office, and because of frequent absence from home prevented from attending but an occasional meeting of the directors I have been amazed at the patience of my brethren who have kept me in the office.

The demands of the Evangelistic Association of New England of which I am General Secretary are no less exacting this year than formerly. These demands I cannot ignore without detrimment to its interests. For these reasons I am constrained to resign the office to which you have called me and ask that my resignation be accepted at once.

With grateful appreciation of the delightful Christian fellowship we have had, and with prayer for the blessing of God in the canvas you are about to make for the much needed new building, and that His guidance may be graciously vouchsafed him who shall be chosen as my successor I beg to remain, with continued interest in the work and an undying love for the Association,

Yours fraternally,

S. M. Sayford.

Sept. 2nd, 1907.

Resolved that this board accepts with deep regret the resignation of S. M. Sayford, the President of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association for the past six years.

Resolved, that we record our sense of the invaluable service which Mr. Sayford has performed in standing at the head of this association during this long and important period in its history. A large measure of its growth and usefulness must be traced directly to the piety, conscientious fidelity and trained wisdom with which he has performed the duties of his important office. As a General Secretary in the State of New York, as State Secretary for Massachusetts and Rhode Island for four years, and as a College Secretary of the International Committee of the North American Associations, Mr. Sayford had not only learned but had helped to create the great principles on which the present large success of the association movement rests. He has accordingly given our association a trained leadership which is unusual, and which the association and all its members and friends must always regard as a vital contribution to whatever success it may hereafter have.

Resolved that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Board of Directors and that a copy of them be forwarded to Mr. Sayford.

Franklin W. Ganse,

D. Fletcher Barber,

Committee.

Mr. Allan C. Emery was chosen president to succeed Mr. Sayford and Mr. C. L. Ellison was chosen vice president to succeed Mr. Emery.

Funeral of James A. Cahill

The funeral of James A. Cahill, a Grand Army veteran, took place Friday morning. Following a service at 8:15 at the family home, 1295 Boylston street, Newton Upper Falls, high requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. T. J. Danahy at 9 at St. Mary's church. Mr. Cahill was a member of Co. K, 32d regt. Massachusetts infantry, having enlisted in July 1862 and reenlisted Jan. 1, 1864. After the civil war he moved to Newton Upper Falls and entered the employ of the city in the street department. Among former Grand Army comrades in attendance at the services Friday morning were Capt. Joseph E. Cousens and Adj. Isaac F. Kingsbury of Charles Ward post 62 of this city. The burial was in Needham cemetery.

Died at Age of 101

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Dwyer, whose death occurred at the age of 101, took place last Saturday morning at St. Mary's church, Newton Upper Falls, Mass. was celebrated by Rev. T. J. Danahy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Needham.

Mrs. Dwyer was Newton Upper Falls' oldest resident. She was born in county Clare, Ire., in 1807. In 1840 she came to America, and two years later was married to Michael Russell of Needham Falls.

Her husband died 25 years ago, and about three years after his death Mrs. Russell married Edward Dwyer, also of Needham. Mrs. Dwyer leaves a stepdaughter, Mrs. T. Maguire, with whom she had made her home for several years, and a granddaughter.

Mrs. Dwyer was a remarkable woman in many ways. Her intellect remained keen and practically unimpaired to the day of her death. Her stories of early life in Ireland and of her arrival in America always commanded the attention of her hearers. Her trip to America on a sailing vessel occupied more than a month and was marked by a violent storm.

Her home was on Reservoir court, on the Needham side of Upper Falls.

Fall Disinfecting

Is there anything more important to the health of the family than putting the home in a perfectly sanitary condition for the coming winter? Sanitary cleanliness by which the process of bactericidal life, harmful to health, is arrested and overcome, is occupying a very prominent place in the up-to-date housekeeper's mind. A little Sulpho-Naphthol, one of the strongest bactericides known to science, in every pail of water used for cleansing, gives a condition of cleanliness and purity which is the highest point reached in home sanitation today. Sulpho-Naphthol has revolutionized modern ideas of house cleaning.

The stomach craves something hot; hence drink the water hot, but not so hot that it will scald the mouth; just comfortably hot. I drank hot water for a year before the craving fully disappeared, eight years ago. It is all gone now.—Sacred Heart Review.

President Burdett of Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston St., Boston, very wisely arranges his courses of instruction so that students who are unable to enter the College at the beginning of the school year, can begin their work on any following Monday and carry it along as successfully as if they began when the school opened. It is an inspiring sight to enter Burdett College and go from room to room and see the hundreds of pupils at work. One is not surprised that this institution has taken the leading place among schools of its kind in New England as its departments of Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Touch Typewriting are so completely equipped for high grade work.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The primaries next Tuesday will attract slight attention from the Republicans of this city, as there are no contests except in ward six over the delegates to the district attorney convention. The delegation headed by Mr. Lowell is divided, three favoring Mr. Higgins and two in favor of Mr. Scott. The Harwood delegation are understood to be favorable to Mr. Johnson. We are indeed sorry that the entire Newton delegation cannot unite in favor of the Newton candidate, Mr. Scott. The effect of unanimity in a convention as large as this one is to be considered and the promising out look for Mr. Scott through the district would be increased by such action. Personal preferences of individual members of the city committee are said to be responsible for the loss of a few votes in the Newton delegation, from the Scott column.

The smoke nuisance inflicted upon the residents of the north side of the city by locomotives is growing worse instead of better. While the railroad commission has requested the B. & A. management to be extremely careful in stoking its engines thru the depression, it is evident that no attention is given the matter. One engine was noticed the other evening belching up enormous quantities of sparks, rivaling the display of fireworks on Boston Common. Some sparks remained aglow on the bridges for several minutes after the train had passed. The danger of fire from this source is considerable besides the annoyance and dirt from the cinders and soot.

The fact that some 75 judges have authority to send persons to the Foxboro Institution about which so much has been seen in the daily papers of late, leads to the query, as to how many of these judicial officers actually know the conditions existing at the various state institutions to which culprits are sentenced. Would it not be a wholesome plan to inaugurate a field day at each of the penal institutions and invite the various police judges to learn something about Foxboro, Bridgewater and other places in the police curriculum.

While Newton residents have only a slight interest in the hearing before the railroad commission yesterday on the poor service given by the Boston & Albany railroad on its thru trains, the facts brought out in evidence, only add to the prevailing opinion in this city that a change in management should be demanded. We trust the railroad commission will bring about an improvement, before the weather conditions of the winter enlarge the range of poor excuses hitherto offered by Mr. Van Etten.

Residents of Auburndale made out a good case last week at the aldermanic hearing on the question of purchasing land adjoining the railroad station for park and public purposes. The fact that Auburndale goes down into its pockets for $3,000, one-half the entire cost, shows that the Improvement Society in that village is a live organization.

High School Notes

High school opened on Monday September 9th with a total enrollment of 945 pupils. There are 176 in the senior class, 198 in the junior, 247 in the sophomore and 324 in the freshman.

The candidates for the football team were called out yesterday and about twenty-five men reported. Only three men from last year's team are back. Charles Paul '08 has been elected captain to take the place of Fritz Ely who has gone to Andover, as has "Rib" Porter. Harry McDevitt of last year's Dartmouth team has been engaged as coach.

Raymond D. Hunting '08 has been appointed assistant manager of the football team.

CITY HALL NOTES

Registration closed Wednesday evening for the primary elections with a total of 89 new names on the lists. Among them was that of Gen. Charles W. Bartlett of Mill street Newtonville, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. The General gave his age as 62, his occupation as a lawyer, and proved that he could read and write.

Chief Randlett of the Fire Dept. has a new automobile.

Correspondence

Editor of the GRAPHIC:

"H. I. B." thinks that Mr. Brimblecom overlooks the point that he tried to make that to cut down expenses is the best way to reduce taxes—that is expenses that are unnecessary, and the value in sentiment or the propriety of spending $500 of money raised by taxation for "Memorial Day." What would have been the cost to the city of having the widening of Washington St decided in court by a jury and what the ultimate value to the city of Commonwealth Ave. are mere matters of individual opinion.

H. I. B. has no doubt about Commonwealth Ave being in time a valuable, handsome street, only that at present it is of doubtful propriety to spend money upon it which merely makes it a more agreeable speeding ground for "motor cars." "H. I. B." has no prejudice against "motor cars," in fact he enjoys riding in them and thinks as does Mr. Brimblecom that they have come to stay, but that does not justify giving them any better roads than those of us who have no "motor car" have to use. As a matter of fact they are considered apparently by our Highway Commissioner entitled to better roads than can be given to other means of travel, and "H. I. B." cannot see why the taxpayers of Newton should pay for Mr. Ross's experiments, and why should the waste of money in skimming over ten thousand square yards with cement that would crumble to pieces with the first using of it be so lightly considered by Mr. Brimblecom or so foolishly, so wantonly extravagantly spent by Mr. Ross. At the City Hall no money was the answer to those who wanted protection to our trees. The elm trees may lose all their leaves, their majestic beauty spoiled as seen by the trees in front of the Police Headquarters, not ten steps hardly from the City Hall, because there was not ten or fifteen dollars at the outside that could be spared to spray them with the arsenate of lead, nothing was done to protect the young maple trees on Washington street set out soon after the widening of that street from the attacks of "hoodlums."

As to the use of snow ploughs after a storm "H. I. B." has no criticism to make, has never made any; he only complained of the unnecessary work of men on Sunday sweeping of the cross walks, when there has been only a trifling snow fall and no sidewalks are cleared at all.

As to comparing our highway expenses with those of other cities and towns "H. I. B." takes no interest.

The grave abuses, the extravagance that attends all city work on the high ways and streets everywhere is too well known. It would be well for all of us to read the report of Mr. Fox, the expert who examined Boston's Highway Department and see if some part of his criticism would not touch us and show the need of reform and economy.

H. I. B.

Politics

For the first time the Independence league filed nomination papers in this city Saturday afternoon. One list of nominees was filed in each ward to serve at all the conventions. The list was as follows:

Ward 1, Thomas A. Aikens, Joseph P. Healy; ward 2, Edward J. Kivell, William A. Kennedy; ward 3, James H. Christie, Edward P. Kebbe; ward 4, William F. Gorman; ward 5, Lorenzo H. Johnson, Michael P. Dumphy; ward 6, Willard W. Osborne, Michael Farrell; ward 7, Roswell C. Ross.

Sec. Christie of the city committee stated that the league will file nominations for the city primaries also.

We are informed that the contesting delegations for the district attorney convention in ward six are classed as follows: that headed by Hon. A. L. Harwood is favorable to the candidacy of Mr. Johnson of Waltham, while that headed by Mr. Lowell is divided between Mr. Scott of Newton and Mr. Higgins of Somerville.

Republican conventions have thus far been called as follows: State, Symphony hall, Boston, Oct. 5, at 10 A. M.; Sixth Councillor, Oct. 4, Wesleyan Hall, Boston, 1 P. M.; Middlesex County, Cambridge, Oct. 1, at 10 A. M. followed by the district attorney convention.

Alderman Edward B. Bowen, who has served as an alderman from ward six since 1902 retires this fall. Among the candidates named to succeed him the most prominent are Mr. Burton Payne Gray and Mr. George W. Pratt.

Few singers have had the almost meteoric rise to fame which has fallen to the lot of Adah Campbell Hussey, the young Boston contralto. Although in New York less than two years, she is already on the very top of the list of Oratorio and concert contraltos. A charming personality, combined with a wealth of artistic temperament and a voice of great beauty, have won for her in this short space of time, the great prominence she has attained. The past season has been little short of a series of continuous triumphs. She sang "The Messiah" no less than seven times (once with the New York Oratorio Society, Frank Damrosch, director, at Paterson, N. J.); she sang "Elijah" with the Harlem Oratorio Society, and Dvorak's "St. Ludmilla" with the Brooklyn Choral Society, being immediately engaged for another performance of Coleridge-Taylor's new work "Kubla-Kahn."

The Rubinstein Club, Eichenkranz Society, Helvetian Society, Century Theatrical Club, and the Steinway Art concerts are among the public engagements she has had in New York.

That the coming season will be even a still greater one than her last is already an assured fact. She begins her season as soloist of the Worcester Festival, for which she was chosen from among a host of applicants. It would not be exaggerating to say that every contralto in the cast tried for this engagement and the fact that Miss Hussey was chosen speaks volumes for her.

Clubs and Lodges

Ladies' auxiliary of division 10, A. O. H., is making arrangements for an autumn party in Mague hall, West Newton, next Tuesday evening.

Evelyn Lord Baker

The community has seldom been so bitterly distressed as by the cable news, received last week, of the pathetic death of Evelyn Lord Baker at York, England, on the eve of her return home with her father, Dr. David E. Baker, with whom she had been making a summer tour of the British Isles. Added to the sorrow of sympathy is the sorrow of wide-spread personal grief. For Miss Baker was rich in those qualities of nature and character which make friends and which endeared her to her friends. She was a girl of fascinating and winsome personality. She was gifted with a fine mind and was unusually accomplished. She finished her course at the High school last year with honor and was to have entered Vassar next week for what promised to be a brilliant course. Modest excellence characterized all her work. Those who saw and heard her take her part in the Commencement program in June will recognize this. She had eminent social gifts. Her power of quick and keen perception, her happy buoyant spirits, her fine sense of humor, added to her rare grace and ease of manner and expression, made her a coveted companion. Her loyalty to her friends was but a sign of that deeper worth which made her friends very loyal to her. Beneath the charm of manner dwelt a pure and beautiful nature, in which the true, noble woman was being born. She loved the beautiful, and revelled in the many glorious scenes that a summer in the British Isles brings to one.

In 1903 she united with the Central Congregational church, to which she has been loyal, and where she has been active. During the last pathetic weeks of her illness away from home, she showed a courage, a cheer and a serenity worthy of a soldier of the faith. She was thoughtful to the last of her father, and sent the word to Newtonville: "Tell them I love everybody." In the hours of suffering she captured the hearts of her nurses till they felt her going to be a poignant grief.

We say of older ones: They have done their work. We surely can not say less of such a life as this, which in these brief years has given so much of charm and cheer and gentleness to the world, and which in these trying weeks showed such superb bravery. To live thus, is to live forever.

Old Resident Dead

Mr. Charles Jordan a resident of Newtonville for nearly forty years died at his home 190 Walnut street early Friday morning of last week, after a long period of feeble health. Mr. Jordan was born in Boston Aug. 6, 1815 and had just passed his 92d birthday. He attended the Franklin school in Boston and was then apprenticed to the trade of a carriage painter. For some years he was with Thomas Goddard, the designer of the Goddard buggy. Later he was employed by the Chickering Co. and for 24 years by the Hallett & Davis Co., retiring from business at the age of 81. He was married in 1840 to Miss Roxanna Stone and many residents of Newtonville will recall the celebration of their golden wedding in their former residence on Washington street. Mrs. Jordan died in 1897. Mr. Jordan was a former master of Siloam Lodge I. O. O. F. of Boston and a member of what is now the Warren Avenue Universalist church. He attended the Universalist church at Newtonville. Mr. Jordan is survived by one daughter, Miss Carrie Jordan.

Funeral services were held from his late home Sunday afternoon, at which Rev. Albert Hammett officiated. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and a profusion of flowers. The burial was at Forest Hills.

Accident

While driving a city water wagon near Center and Beacon street yesterday afternoon, Patrick Foley, aged 43, living at 39 Beecher place, lost his balance and fell off the wagon. He struck the macadam roadway on his head. Besides being stunned and generally shaken up he was cut and bruised. He was carried to Holden's stable and attended by a doctor and later removed to the Newton hospital. It is expected that he will recover in a few days.

Found Dead

A colored man identified as Charles McCullough of Boston was found dead in a stable in the outskirts of Newton Centre Wednesday morning.

McCullough was employed by the W. L. Farren express company of 71 Lenox street, Boston. Tuesday night he started for a place west of here with a load of furniture, but went to the barn of John Janse, 336 Dudley street, which is not far from the West Roxbury line, and put up his horses for the rest of the night. He turned in himself to sleep, and late Wednesday forenoon when members of Mr. Janse's family went into the barn they found him lying dead on the floor. Medical Examiner West viewed the remains and found that death was due to natural causes. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of E. W. Pratt.

Cupid on The Fence.

It was Friday afternoon. As usual, Jack had telephoned Elinor asking her to go automobiling with him, and, not at all as usual, she had said she would not. Her refusal was unpremeditated and almost as much of a surprise to herself as it was to Jack, but sober second thought seemed to justify it.

It was foolish, so argued Elinor to herself as she hung up the receiver, to let Jack take so much for granted, to let him think she was always ready, as a matter of course, to answer his beck and call. She would show him a thing or two. There were other men to be considered, and she didn't intend to marry Jack any more than—well, perhaps not as much as she intended to marry some one else! Still it was such a lovely afternoon, and she did so love to go automobiling!

The telephone rang again. "Hello," answered Elinor languidly. "Oh, Mr. Norris? Yes. Go automobiling with you this afternoon? I shall be delighted. Three o'clock? All right. I'll be ready. Goodbye."

Elinor clasped her hands and gave herself a little squeeze of congratulation.

Half an hour later, her little round chin tilted saucily above the big blue bow of her gauzy veil, Elinor stood waiting on the porch, a picture of pertness and prettiness.

At the "honk, honk," of an approaching automobile she ran quickly down the steps to greet Vernon Norris, but to her astonishment the car did not stop, and, looking after it curiously, she discovered that it was not Vernon, after all, but Jack, and—could she believe her eyes?—he was not alone! There was a funny little tight feeling about Elinor's heart that she didn't care to analyze. She turned her back on the vanishing apparition of Jack, and there on the top of the hill, like a coming event that had cast its shadow before it (alas, that it was such a corporeal shadow!), she saw Vernon's car looming into sight.

Anyway, reflected Elinor, if Vernon's auto wasn't such a beauty as Jack's, it was still an auto, and if Vernon wasn't, perhaps, as handsome as Jack, he was still a man, and when it came to a matter of comparison, a man far more solicitous of her happiness. Jack had a way of splashing through the country without, apparently, the least consciousness of her presence beside him. Vernon, on the other hand, was always on the alert to rescue the wayward end of her veil, to inquire for her comfort and to ask what speed best pleased her present mood. With him she herself, not the machine, was the center of his thoughts.

As a result of these reflections, Elinor greeted Vernon with an unusually winsome smile and extended her hand with charming graciousness, a favor which that young man, most naturally, flattered himself was stimulated by his own irresistible powers of attraction.

Elinor followed up the cordiality of her welcome with such a chatter of merry talk as they went flying through the country and seemed so radiantly happy, that Vernon, bringing the machine to a sudden slowdown, simultaneously with his inspiration, decided to learn his fate then and there.

It proved most literally a popping of the question. His declaration was cut short with a sound as of spontaneous combustion. The noise, together with Vernon's unexpected proposal, took Elinor off her feet, both mentally and physically. As she sprang up, Vernon caught her to him.

"It's all right, dear," he murmured, with extravagant tenderness. "You're not hurt; only frightened," and he lifted her veil so that he might look into her face.

Elinor freed herself with effort.

"No," she said, sadly, "I'm not hurt—and I'm not frightened." She felt suddenly an indescribable shrinking from the man. He had been too quick to take advantage of the situation. Had it been Jack, he—

Vernon interrupted her train of thought by shouting to some men in the distance for help. They did not hear him.

"Awfully sorry," he said finally, "but I'm afraid I'll have to go across the fields for help. There's a farmhouse over there. I'm very much like Humpty Dumpty, you see, I don't know how to put myself together again." (Elinor saw, but somehow was not amused.) "Will you be timid here alone?"

"Not at all," she answered firmly, ignoring the sentimental look in his eyes.

"I won't be long," he assured her as he jumped out of the car. "Stay just where you are and make yourself comfortable. The car won't budge."

After Vernon had disappeared from sight, Elinor, not at all confident, in spite of his assurance, as to what the instant auto might do next, jumped out and perched herself on the post of a nearby fence.

She was a most bewitching little vision as she sat there, her fawn-colored coat outlined against the green meadow background, and her slimy veil, which she had loosened, floating out softly in the breeze as if on its way to join the clouds in the blue sky above it. But Elinor was oblivious to the picturesqueness of her plight. All she could think of was its stupidity. Why, oh why, hadn't she gone with Jack? Oh, yes, she remembered—she was teaching him a lesson, showing him his proper place, tempering his unwarranted and unendurable air of assumption. Hum! Let's see, this was August—it was just six months since she had met him, and he seemed to think so brief an acquaintance entitled him to the privileges of many years. To be sure, she had been to nearly every one of the Country club dances with him—but he did dance so divinely—and had gone out with him every Friday afternoon for a matter of some eight or ten weeks. But what of it? There were plenty of others craving her favor, and just because she happened to like Jack's dancing and Jack's auto better than anybody else's, was that any reason why he—

Honk, honk! The staccato breaking of the silence nearly caused Elinor to lose her balance. She gripped the top rail of the fence hard and watched the wild thing whiz by. Suddenly it began to slow down, then it turned around and started back again. Jack's car! Her heart gave a bound of happy relief. Then it sank sickeningly as again she noticed some one beside him—a woman, but so heavily veiled that Elinor could not see her face.

Jack brought the machine to a standstill beside its disabled contemporary, jumped out and looked about for its possible owner. He could scarce believe his senses when he saw Elinor perched in solitary misery on the fence. "Why, Elinor," he cried in astonishment, "what has happened?"

"Nothing much, thank you, Mr. Williams," answered Elinor distantly. "Just a slight accident. Mr. Norris has gone across the fields to get some assistance. He will be back in a minute. Don't stop, I beg of you."

But Jack was used to having his own way and was already underneath Vernon's machine investigating the cause of the trouble.

Meanwhile between Elinor and the veiled lady in the other car there was an exchange of furtive glances, but none of civilities.

"She's all right now," exclaimed Jack, emerging soon. "Just got tired of going so fast and thought she'd give you two a little surprise. Which way did you say Norris went?"

Before Elinor could reply Jack had run up the road a short distance and stood looking intently through his field glasses at a speck of a figure hurrying toward them.

"That's Norris now," he called back to the veiled lady. "Say, Nora, suppose you get into his car and run up to meet him. It will give him a jolly good surprise to be rescued by his own machine. I'll stay with Miss Kendall."

The veiled lady answered with a cherry "All right, Jack," that made Elinor wince and shifted with easy agility from one car to the other.

As soon as the machine had a good start Jack, with a leap and a bound, made for the fence. He landed with a jump directly in front of Elinor and stood looking up at her wistfully.

"On which side of the fence are you going to jump, dear?" he asked gently.

"On the other," replied Elinor, with a little gasp.

But she did not, for Jack took her in his strong arms and, heedless of her protestations, ran with her to his machine, which he set going at full speed.

When Elinor had regained her equilibrium and her breath, she assumed an injured expression wholly out of keeping with the tumult of joy in her heart.

"Who is the other woman?" she asked frigidly, though what did it matter now?

Jack laughed heartily. "My cousin Nora and yours to be dear. I had to get some one to ride with me, you know."

Elinor looked up at him shyly. "Do you think they'll catch up with us?" she asked, her eyes sparkling with happiness.

"Probably won't try to," chuckled Jack. "You see, Nora's steering that machine, and Vernon will have to follow her lead. She's had her cap set for him ever since she came to town. She wasn't having a bit of a good time with me. But suppose they should overtake us, Elinor," continued Jack, with mock anxiety, "would you like to change back again?"

"No, Jack," replied Elinor softly. "I've made my jump, and I'm on your side of the fence forever."

Police Paragraphs

Antonio Macconi, aged 47, a fruit-dealer at 1229 Center street, Newton Centre, was in the police court Friday morning on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk front of his store. The case was continued to Dec. 28. Last week Macconi asked the police and the street commissioner's office for a permit to use part of the sidewalk but the request was refused. Macconi, it is alleged, used the sidewalk just the same.

When Mrs. Mary Kelley of River street, West Newton, went to the house of Miss Mary H. McEnany, a neighbor, in search of her son who was making a call there, an altercation ensued in which Miss McEnany is said to have received a shaking, according to testimony heard in the police court Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Kelley was arraigned on a charge of assault upon Miss McEnany. She was fined $5.

Trouble lasting an exciting quarter of an hour occurred last week Thursday night in the house of Mrs. Thomas Manning, River street, West Newton, when in the excitement of a fire caused by overturning a lamp her son, John Manning, escaped from two policemen who wanted him on a charge of nonsupport of his wife. Manning appeared in court here June 1 last on a charge of nonsupport and was ordered to pay his wife a certain amount weekly. Recently complaints came to the police that Manning was not living up to the agreement, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. That night it was learned that he had returned to West Newton and was at the home of his mother. Patrolmen Bates and Monaghan went to the dwelling, armed with a warrant, but it is said they were told Manning was not there. They finally entered the house and found him in bed. When the policemen interrupted his slumbers, the police say, Manning jumped out of bed, knocking over a lamp and setting fire to the furnishings. The policemen had all they could do to extinguish the blaze before it could get beyond control. In the meantime Manning jumped out of a window and has not been seen since.

Base Ball

Newton 9—Needham 8.

In one of the most exciting games of the season at Needham, the Y. M. C. A. team defeated the strong Needham Superbas by a score of 9-8 on last Saturday afternoon. The Newton boys got a bad start, giving the Needhams 6 runs in the first three innings by a combination of three hits and six errors. After that, runs and hits were scarce for Needham. In the fifth the local team succeeded in hitting Rowan the old Newton high player for seven hits which they coupled with a brace of errors, gave five runs. One more was added in the 6th. 2 in the 8th and one in the 9th inning, while Needham succeeded in getting two runs in the 8th inning. For Newton, Howards pitching, Sullivan's work at 1st base, H. Turners playing at right field and the base running of Chase and Sullivan were the features. Halliday and O'Neill excelled for Needham.

On Saturday morning the Intermediates defeated the South Boston Y. M. C. A. Jr's, at Cabot Park by a score of 7-5.

On Saturday afternoon Sept 21st at Cabot Park the Y. M. C. A. team will play the strong Page Class of Roxbury. The Page Class team has again won the championship of the Greater Boston Church League and a fine game may be expected, for the local team will have its full strength. Howard and Bartley will be the battery for the Y. M. C. A., while Martin and Gilroy will work for the Page Class. Game at 3:15 sharp.

Union Service of Holy Name Society

A stirring sermon was delivered by Very Rev. Charles McKenna, O. P., of the Dominican fathers, in a tri-annual solemn vespers service held Sunday evening in the church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Centre. Over 1200 persons, most of them members of the Holy Name society living in the various Newtons, attended the impressive service.

"The Holy Name society enriches the church," said Rev. Fr. McKenna. "Its work has been great in Asia, Europe and America. It is not a political organization, it is not conducted for financial benefit, but the love of God and the elevation of fellowmen is the corner stone of the society. It enriches the church."

Rev. Fr. McKenna declared that the Holy Name society is the oldest Catholic society in the world and also the oldest society of lay men in existence. He told of the founding of the society in 1274 by Gregory X, when the Dominican fathers were called upon to go forth and preach devotion to the name of God. He urged the members to be loyal to the society. He declared that if they are brave and loyal to Christ and true to the Holy Name society they will surely be rewarded.

Fr. McKenna asserted that there are societies whose members are pledged to do all in their power to destroy the Catholic church. He said, however, that the principal enemies of the church can be classed under three distinctive heads. "The drunkard and the impure man are great enemies, but the greatest crime man can commit against the church is blasphemy."

"Where," he asked, "is the pleasure to the man who insults God?"

The sermon held the close attention of the congregation, which filled the magnificent edifice. The service was an impressive one. Rev. Dennis J. Wholey, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, was celebrant; Rev. James F. Kelley, assistant pastor of the church of Our Lady, Newton, was deacon; and Rev. Frederick A. Allechin, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, Newton Upper Falls, sub deacon, and Rev. James F. Haney, assistant pastor of the Sacred Heart church, was master of ceremonies.

Once every three years the members of the Holy Name society throughout the city attend solemn vespers in the Sacred Heart church. Last Sunday evening special electric lights conveyed them to and from Newton Centre. Forming on Center street near Beacon the members marched in two into the edifice.

A Novel Idea

Several years ago, the manager and largest stockholder of one of the largest manufacturing establishments of its kind in this country became impressed with the difference in capacity for work between those of his hands who frequented saloons and those who did not. He instituted a searching inquiry. He was presently convinced that the workman who visited saloons, even though he drank a little, was worth to the concern at least a dollar less per week than the man who avoided saloons. The loss might not be a deliberate neglect. It might take a hundred different forms—forgetfulness, carelessness, nervousness, etc.

After some thought this manager concluded to try an experiment. Whenever a new man came for employment he had the applicant sent to his private office. Suppose the regular wages were twelve dollars a week. The manager would say: "I am paying for such work as you propose to do twelve dollars a week to men who do not go to saloons. To those who do go to these places the pay is eleven dollars a week. On what basis do you prefer to work?"

The applicant, who has heard someone say that this is a free country, sometimes gets irritated. He replies that whether he goes to a saloon or not is his own affair—that no one has a right to interfere with his personal liberty, and so forth. To which the manager answers that he does not wish to interfere with the personal liberty of anyone. Neither does he propose to permit anyone to interfere with his liberty to pay men only what they earn. He has learned that a man who visits drinking places does not earn as much as he who keeps away from them. Therefore the former is not entitled to as much pay as the latter. "Now," concludes the manager, "it is for you to say whether you will receive the twelve or the eleven dollars for your week's wage. For myself I would prefer to have you work on the twelve-dollar-a-week basis."

By this time the applicant has become thoughtful. He thinks of that big, extra dollar. He wonders whether the pleasure of loafing around a saloon two or three evenings a week is worth that dollar. If he has a home he probably thinks of that. He asks himself if it would not be worth another dollar to the home if he, the head of it, spent his evenings with his wife and children. Returning to himself again he asks himself what good the saloon ever did him. Did it not rather harm him in every way? It took his nickels and gave him stale beer that deadened his better life. The manager is patient. In a few minutes the applicant looks up and says, in a decided tone: "Put me down for the twelve dollars a week."

This work has now been going on for several years, and the establishment is prospering. It is building up a basis of sobriety. The manager finds himself growing into real fellowship with his men. Some of them are foreigners who thought they could not get along without their beer. They often speak to the manager of their better state of health and their increasing joy in their homes since they adopted this plan.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—A feature much out of the ordinary will be among the leading attractions at Keith's next week—Burr McIntosh, the well known actor who has won fame in many parts, notably as "Taffy" in "Tribby", and who has become even better known as a photographer, is to deliver an illustrated lecture on "Secretary Taft's Visit to the Philippines." Mr. McIntosh was the official photographer on this notable trip and the camera records he made are therefore authentic. The talk that he gives is fully as interesting as the pictures, and abounds in anecdotes relating to the many prominent people who were members of the party. Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge", who is scoring this week one of the greatest successes made by a monologist in Boston, will be retained for a second week. Kelly is in a class by himself. A notable vaudeville debut will be that of Christine LaBarraque, a blind vocalist with a phenomenal voice. Miss LaBarraque has had a most extraordinary career, her life story reading almost like a romance. Her musical education was obtained abroad. The Darras Brothers, in a great trapeze act, and Griff, a very clever clown juggler, are two Keith importations from Europe to make their Boston debuts. William A. Dillon, a brother of the widely known Dillon Brothers, and himself famous as "The Man with 1000 Songs"; Almont and Dumont, in an instrumental act that ranks with the very best; the Reiff Brothers, in their notable dancing act; Miles and Rickards, singers and dancers; Hill's educated animals; Conlin and Steele, in a bright sketch; Louis Guertin, a remarkable jumper, and the Kinetograph, will all be on the bill.

Orpheum Theatre—Great interest has been manifested among electricians over the announcement that Volta, the electrical marvel, is to be one of the features at the Orpheum next week. Volta absolutely defies the electrical fluid, and does some remarkable things on the stage. He is the man who created a sensation by going to Sing Sing and offering to sit in the death chair while the full current was turned on. Volta lights a gas jet with his tongue, welds iron with his both hands, and lights a handkerchief with flames from his hair, his body being charged with electricity. A feature of another kind, and of even greater importance, is the engagement of Edwards Davis, the former clergyman, who will present one of the most remarkable one act tragedies ever written. Other features of this strong bill are Edward Clark and his "Winning Widows", one of the liveliest companies of singers and dancers on the stage; Quinlan and Mack, comedians, in their laughable sketch, "The Traveling Dentist"; Wells and Hassan, a remarkable team of acrobats; Paul La Croix; Montgomery and Moore, and a number of others, making what is unquestionably one of the strongest bills the Orpheum has ever presented.

Tremont Theatre—Klaw and Erlanger's advanced vaudeville has caught on mightily at the Tremont Theatre, where the audiences at every performance have been limited only by the capacity of the house. Everything has been of the very best and will continue to be, as is evidenced by the phenomenal list of entertainers who make up the great bill for the current week. Arthur Prince is the greatest ventriloquist the world has ever seen. His act is simply indescribable save by the phrase that it is a scream from start to finish—one of the most delicious comedy acts that Boston has seen for many a day; and yet Prince is not a single star surrounded by a lot of satellites of mediocre quality, merely used for feeders or fillers as is too often the case, but he simply stands at the top of a great list of entertainers of the highest quality such as Grace Hazard in her "Five Feet of Comic Opera"; the famous Pekin Zouaves, the best drilled corps in the world; Ed Blondell and company in "The Lost Boy"; the Four Lukens, casting acrobats; M. Desbrosches and Mlle. Bianca: the Italian Trio; Rawson and June, experts with the boomerang; Clifton Crawford, in a most interesting monologue, both comic and serious, and a new lot of animated pictures especially selected for patrons of the Tremont Theatre. This, it can easily be seen, is a remarkable bill, but Klaw and Erlanger promise even better for the week of the 23rd inst.

Park Theatre—You must see William Collier, the foremost comedian of the day, in his new play "Caught in the Rain" at the Park Theatre. The play is a scream and Collier is a natural born comedian. "Caught in the Rain", which, by the way was written by Mr. Collier and Grant Stewart, ran all last season at the Garrick Theatre, New York. Mr. Collier is inimitable. Gifted with a rare sense of humor his natural methods and fine dramatic ability have given him a well earned position on the American stage. We all like a love story and there is the prettiest kind of a love story in "Caught in the Rain." The love scenes ring true. Yet with all its appealing heart interest "Caught in the Rain" is the greatest farce in years. At no time does the comedian fall down stairs or hit the leading man in the car with a slap stick. The scenes of the play are laid in Denver at the present day. Mr. Collier appears as Dick Crawford, a young mining engineer. He is a particularly bashful young chap. One day caught in a heavy rain storm he seeks shelter under a friendly awning and there meets Muriel Mason with whom he falls desperately in love. "Caught in the Rain" will cure the blues and you will agree that Collier is simply captivating.

Boston Grand Opera House—Next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House will be "Through Death Valley", which contains at least one sensation that has never been approached in the annals of melodrama. This peerless thriller comes as the climax of the third act and for fully five minutes the audience is held in suspense because of the grave peril which threatens to destroy the life of the hero. A man is tied to a stake, while close at hand a venomous rattlesnake is bound. The unfortunate victim's head is directly opposite that of the snake. It is a well-known fact that moisture makes a snake stretch. The villains realizing this freak of nature and knowing that a big rain storm is due, leave their enemy to meet his end. The rain falls in torrents, and the snake's head approaches nearer and nearer to the face of the unlucky human being. Just as he is about to give his fatal sting, something happens which saves the hero from a terrible death. The story of the play is of absorbing interest, and is a bitter arraignment against the Mormon church. There will be the usual matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Post Office Notes

The annual civil service examination for clerks and carriers in the Newton Centre, Mass., postoffice, will be held in Boston, Mass., on Nov. 20, 1907 at 9 a. m. This examination is held for the purpose of establishing a register of eligibles from which appointments may be made as occasion may require in the Newton Centre, Mass., postoffice. Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 45 years, and citizens of the United States. Those of the male sex must be at least 5 feet, 4 inches tall, without shoes, and weigh not less than 125 pounds in ordinary clothing. The required application form, with instructions in regard to the requirements of the examination, and specimen examination questions, may be obtained from H. F. Butler at the postoffice, or Edward E. Stebbins, Secretary Board of Examiners, P. O. Box 158, Boston, Mass. Application must be filed with the latter not later than October 21st.

Undoubtedly positions in postoffices will prove more attractive to the public than heretofore by reason of the graded salary list, with annual promotions, established on July 1st, 1907, as follows: 1st grade, salary $600 per annum. 2nd grade, salary $800 per annum. 3rd grade, salary $900 per annum. 4th grade, salary $1000 per annum. 5th grade, salary $1100 per annum. 6th grade, salary $1200 per annum.

In accordance therewith clerks at postoffices of the First Class, and city delivery carriers will be promoted successively to the fifth grade, and to the fourth grade in offices of the Second Class. All promotions will be made at the expiration of a year's service in the next lower grade depending on the faithfulness and efficiency of the employee during the preceding year.

LABOR AND LIQUOR

Some Good, Practical Suggestions to the Laboring Men of America by Their Leaders and Friends

"The deadliest enemy of both labor and capital is rum."—T. V. Powderly.

Why They Pay Rent

If it were not for the saloons I think that seven-tenths of the working men would have their own homes instead of paying rent."—P. M. Arthur.

How They Bought Homes

"I have built numerous houses for moderate-drinking working men on condition that they would become teetotallers and they have afterward paid for them with the money and extra strength gained thereby."—P. T. Barnum.

Cost of Their Liquor

"Let every laborer know this fact: That at least one full hour's toil of each day's labor is his tax for the support of the dramsops of America."—J. H. Sherman.

Reason for Past Failures

"In the whole English language I can find no word that strikes more terror to my soul than the one word Rum. One of the reasons why labor organizations have failed in the past is because the leaders didn't have the manhood to denounce liquor as a curse."—T. V. Powderly.

Worst Foe of Labor

"The foe of labor is not capital, but ignorance and vice. In the whole English speaking world, at least, its worst enemy is drink. More than a combination of all employers, the saloon has the power to impoverish and degrade the working men."—Bishop Spalding of Peoria, Ill., in Essay on "Labor and Capital."

Why Not Dump It?

Professor Osler, addressing a meeting at a working men's college, said: "If all the beer and spirits could be dumped into the sea for a year, the people of England would be infinitely better off; and if all the tobacco was also dumped into the sea it would be good for the people, though hard on the fish."

Pedestrian and Drink

M. de Bernoff, the famous Russian pedestrian, in reply to a question addressed to him by an interviewer as to whether he used alcohol in his long walks, said: "I neither smoke nor drink. When in Bavaria I was occasionally tempted to take a glass of good German beer, but it knocked me up utterly, and I soon had to give it up. I always walk on pure water or milk."

Dr. Lorenz, the great Austrian surgeon, was present at a certain banquet given in his honor. Bottles were passed round the table, and many of the guests drank. The principal guest, however, pushed his wine aside untasted, and asked the waiter to bring him a cup of tea. German ideas of temperance are less strict than ours, and some one asked him if he was a teetotaler. "I cannot say that I am a temperance agitator," said Dr. Lorenz, "but I am a surgeon. My success depends upon my brain being clear, my muscles firm, and nerves steady. No one can take alcoholic liquor without blunting these physical powers which I must keep on edge. As a surgeon I must not drink."—H. H. Smith, Kinsale, Va.

Kentucky May Become "Dry"

It is predicted that the whole state of Kentucky will be dry within a year or so. The distilleries that have made the state famous have not been running full time this year and many of the once valuable plants have been abandoned and are rotting down. Out of 119 counties, 95 are dry.

Lasell Notes

Frances Bent Dillingham, author of "A Proud Little Baxter" and "A Christmas Tree Scholar" and contributor to the magazines, earlier a student at Lasell and A. B. of Boston University, will take charge of the departure of Literature at Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, Mass., with the incoming year.

Margaret Rand, A. B. of Smith College, 1897, who has certificated in Psychology at the Harvard Summer School, a successful teacher, will take the class in History with Psychology and Ethics for the coming year.

Lasell Seminary opening: Sept. 24 new pupils arrive; Sept. 25, classification day; Sept. 26, formal opening.

Leon H. Vincent opens the lecture season the evening of the 26th with a talk on "John Ruskin."

Fire in Moving Train

Fire broke out in a car loaded with bales of wool on a westbound freight train near Lowell ave, Newtonville, early Sunday morning. An alarm was sounded from box 23, and the car was detached from the train and switched to a side track in order that the firemen might better fight the blaze.

There were about 50 bales in the car and about a third of this number were burned. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, and it was only after about an hour and a half of hard work that the blaze was extinguished. The wool was shipped from Boston and was consigned to Three Rivers, Mich. The estimated damage was about $1000.

Parker Again Champion

Dr. Wm. H. Parker again proved his superiority to his club mates as a singles player on Wednesday, when he easily defeated A. C. Turner in the finals of the 5th annual championship tournament at the Waban Tennis Courts. Turner won his way into the final round last week by defeating L. W. Strong without difficulty, although a sharp rally gave the latter the second set 9-7. He was outclassed by his opponent in the finals however, and was never dangerous, losing many points on nets and outs, as the score shows.

Parker: Places 18, nets, 27, outs 19, total 64; Turner, places, 7, nets, 28, outs, 41, total 76.

The champion covered the court well, used excellent judgment in placing and hit hard.

Summary. Semifinals, A. C. Turner beat L. W. Strong 6-2, 6-2; Finals, W. H. Parker beat A. C. Turner, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

How to Burn my Coal

My coal has such a strong and lasting body that it doesn't take much to make a hot fire, and some of it will not be entirely consumed in the first fire; but don't throw any of it away.

IT WILL ALL BURN

If you give it a second chance. Its quality is so good that there is almost no stone or slate and only a comparatively small ash.

EYE TROUBLES

Consult absolutely free our Staff of Examining Oculists—regular physicians whose life has been and is devoted solely to curing Diseases of the Eye and correcting Errors of the Eyesight. It costs you no more to have these regular Eye Specialists treat your eye troubles and properly fit the necessary glasses—to give you perfect eyesight—than if you went to an ordinary optician who by the laws of Massachusetts is forbidden from treating the eye other than selling and fitting glasses. Our specialists diagnose your case. If you need glasses they will be made and furnished from our mechanical department; if you need medical treatment for the eyes it will be given by our physicians. We guarantee absolutely the very best and the latest methods in correcting any eye troubles or sight errors.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

A meeting of the aldermen without a word of debate is something of a novelty nowadays, but that is what happened last Monday night. Not an alderman opened his mouth except to answer a roll call and two make two motions one to grant a petition without reference and one to adjourn.

President Carter was in the chair and these aldermen were also present: Aldermen Bacon, Bowen, Burr, Cabot, Clarke, Condrin, Converse, Doherty, Holmes, Jones, Lyons, Stone, Underwood, Weston and White.

Many hearings were held, altho no one appeared on the following. Telephone Co. for attachments on Seminary ave; and on Berkeley st: Gas Light Co. for attachments on Madison ave, on Harvard st: on Cabot st: on Gay st: on Lowell ave: on Woodland road, for poles on Harvard st and on Lowell ave: also for taking land for sewer in Tolman st.

At the hearing on petition of the Telephone Co. to place poles in Fairview st, remonstrance was made by Mr. Herbert M. Bacon and Mr. Joseph W. Bacon who said that the residents on that street were now supplied with telephones and there was no need for poles. No objection would be made, however, to underground construction. Mr. H. S. Allen, district superintendent said that the Company wish this line of poles to relieve the poles now standing in the adjoining streets. The new line would lighten the burden now carried on Willard st and Oakleigh road and would give a more direct connection with the underground now in Hunnewell avenue.

A communication from the School Committee containing the information that the new Nonantum school building would be named "The Stearns School" was received.

The Public Buildings Commissioner sent in the application of R. L. Davidson to erect a frame office building on Chestnut street. Referred.

The Board of Health asked for sewers in Lexington, North sts, Bacon Place, Cemetery ave, Richardson and Langley roads. Referred.

Petition of M. C. Laflie for Auctioneer license was granted.

These petitions were referred: M. A. Cannon for 4 wagons and liquor permit: C. McHale for wagon and liquor permit: Mrs. J. T. Evans for sewer in Richardson rd: Haffermehl et al for sewer in Langley road: Eirney et al for sewer in Lexington st: Nealley et al for sewer in Garden rd: Frank P. Benson for wagon license: Esteman M. Cifre for Common Victualler license: Alfred Farlow for sewer in Commonwealth avenue: Jacob Bressler that his junk license be transferred to Max Silverman: James Gannon et al, foreman in Street Dept. for weekly wages of $19.30: G. K. Stacy et al firemen for one day off in eight: J. Edward Dudley to alter stable on Beacon st ward 6: and of Robinson et al for concrete sidewalks under betterment act on Rowe st, Wolcott st, Auburndale ave and Camden road.

Hearings on Oct. 7 were ordered on these petitions:—Telephone Co for poles on Allerton road: relocations on Warren st, Grant ave and Washington st: and attachments on Centre st, Montfort road and Pleasant st: of the Gas Light Co for poles on Albemarle road and attachments on Beacon, Woodward sts and Brookside ave: of the Newton Street Railway Co. for attachments on Washington and Crafts sts: of G. H. Bourne for removal of tree on Woodbine st and of V. A. Pluta for removal of tree on Rowe terrace.

On recommendation of the Finance Committee, $3500 additional was appropriated for Collection of Ashes: $1,582.72 was transferred from Street Watering to Public Property and $21,348 granted for city expenses to Oct. 15.

On recommendations of the Committee on Public Franchises the Telephone Co. was granted attachments on Melrose st, Winter st, Ripley road, Pine Ridge road, relocations on Centre and Oak streets; the Gas Light Co attachments on Nahant street, pole locations on Brookline, Dedham, and Walnut streets and a conduit location in Beacon st, Newton Centre: Mellen Bray, permit to lay heating conduit under Institution avenue and Walter F. Dugan a wagon license and liquor permit.

On recommendation of the same Committee licenses were refused Davis & Trudo to locate a steam engine on Church st: Wm. P. Matthes and Antonio Vana for wagon licenses and liquor permit: and to Abraham Luff and Harry Shapiro for junk licenses.

On recommendation of the Public Works Committee hearings were assigned on Oct. 7 on taking land for sewers in Bacon place, Thomas st, Hobart terrace, Garden road, for construction of concrete sidewalks under betterment act on Ballard, Sumner and Ward streets: authorizing removal of a tree on Washington st, West Newton: taking land for sewer in Tolman st and authorizing sewer construction in Garden road, and appropriating $2400 towards purchase of land in Auburndale for park purposes when citizens shall have contributed $3600 for the same purpose. The same Committee reported no further action on petition for removal of tree on Lombard street and recommended leave to withdraw on the proposed laying out of Dehnore road.

An order was adopted establishing polling places for the state election on Nov. 5 and the city election Dec. 10th. These jurors were drawn by Alderman Clarke, Edgar J. Smith, Lake ave: Harrie E. Duncan, Foster st: Willard L. Sampson, Tremont st and E. Hosmer Hammond, Lake ave.

The board adjourned at 8.40 P. M.

Your attention is called to the adv. of Alfred Pearson who has opened up rooms at 28 School St., Boston. Mr. Pearson has been in the tailoring business the past 25 years and is prepared to show his acquaintances and customers all the latest patterns in foreign and domestic woolsens, which are cut and finished in the best and latest fashions.

Police Paragraphs

By submitting a definition of "bonfire" from a standard dictionary, Joshua G. Coburn, convinced Judge Kennedy that he was not guilty of building a bonfire on his premises, 99 Washington st, in violation of a city ordinance, when arraigned in the police court, Monday morning.

The complaint was made by Sydney R. Smith, a neighbor, and it was alleged that the smoke from the fire was wafter by the breeze into Smith's house. Mr. Coburn said: "I have lived in Newton 17 years and have been in the custom of burning leaves and twigs on my own premises. I want to find out if I have a right to use my land for my own benefit, comfort and thrift."

"You know there is a difference between the city and the country," said Judge Kennedy, "but after looking up the definition of 'bonfire' I must find you not guilty under this statute. The dictionary says that a bonfire is for the purpose of celebration or pleasure. I would say, however, that it would be much cheaper and better for you if you refrain from making fires on your own premises to the alleged annoyance of your neighbors."

"I understand I have been summoned here as a criminal," said venerable Mr. Coburn.

"The court has found you not guilty," said Clerk Sprague.

"But the judge found me not guilty while I was on the witness stand," replied Mr. Coburn. "I have a great deal more I would like to say. I have some witnesses besides."

"The most that could be done for you would be to find you not guilty," replied Judge Kennedy. "We could do no more if we heard this case two more days."

"But I do not want my name to go on the court records as being in here as a criminal," declared Mr. Coburn in a trembling voice.

After it was explained that a record of not guilty would be no reflection upon his character and that there were other cases on the list that must be tried, Mr. Coburn finally retired from the stand.

Annual Report of West Newton W. C. T. U.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. A. L. Jordan, secretary, Mrs. M. M. Beardsley, treasurer, Mrs. S. N. Waters, vice presidents, Mrs. W. H. Rand, Mrs. A. J. Grover, Mrs. E. E. Mason. Superintendents of different departments; soldiers and sailors, Mrs. H. K. Burrison, flower mission, Mrs. S. A. Leighton, L. T. L. and press work, Mrs. W. H. Rand, medal contest, Dr. N. L. Rand. Frances Willard settlement, Mrs. E. E. Mason.

The great work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union is being felt throughout the world and we, as a branch of this organization, realize the responsibility resting upon us.

Our work for the past year has been prosperous, we have held twelve meetings with an average attendance of sixteen and one public meeting. At this meeting Miss Agnes Slack of England, World's secretary of the W. C. T. U., who was attending the convention being held in Boston, addressed a very interesting audience at the Baptist church.

The following is a brief outline of work done by the social departments. Contributions to the Frances Willard Settlement, twenty-five dollars, and a barrel of jars of preserves.

Flower mission, three dollars and twenty-five cents, one hundred and thirty roses, two boxes cut flowers, large box of groceries, one and one half bushel pears.

Soldiers and sailors, sixty comfort bags, twenty-four wall pockets, two barrels containing two hundred and forty-two magazines and two hundred and thirty papers.

We have an L. T. L. with a membership of fifty-four. During the year eight meetings were held and in June they entertained the county convention at which there were two oratorical contests and two of our members won the medals.

The work of the L. T. L. is fundamentally important in that it is an institution for instilling the great principles of temperance in children.

The future progress of the work we hold so dear, depends upon the individual effort. With this thought in mind let us take up the work for the coming year with greater courage and zeal.

At the close of the business hour refreshments were served by our hostesses Mrs. E. E. Mason.

Mrs. A. L. Jordan, Sec. pro tem.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

If you should enquire for the fountain of life, most people couldn't tell you where it was, but if you wanted the next best thing, you would better send to the General Secretary of the Newton Y. M. C. A. and he could help you out.

He would inform you as to the best way to take care of your body, how to make the best friends and how to enjoy your life in the best way.

Here are a few hints.

On—Sept 28 the gymnasium opens for the boys' Preparatory, 10-12 years; Juniors, 12-14 years, Intermediates, 14-18 years, including all high school boys.

Oct. 1. for the men 16 years and over. Oct. 16 for the business men.

Within 24 hours after the renewal notices were sent out to the boys, they came flocking in, in fear of losing their coveted membership.

One of our interested members has already brought two of his personal friends to take out memberships.

Don't forget to enquire.

The writer of the above notice is the new chairman of the membership committee. He intends to interest more men in the Association this year than any other member. But he can't do it all. Every member should help him in his campaign to increase the membership.

Wm. Hanson is always among the first each year to present his friends for membership. Mr. Albert E. Dane and Mr. Harold T. Lingham have been received on his recommendation.

The gymnasium classes open next Saturday morning, Sept. 28th when the juniors will begin their year's work. The Intermediate class will meet Monday, Sept. 30th. The Senior class, Tuesday, Oct. 1st.

Mr. L. F. LaRose who has been physical director of the Association for the past three years has received a fine offer to become physical director in the Canal Zone, Panama. If his place can be filled in time he will accept. Mr. LaRose's friends while they are glad of this unique opportunity are hoping that the Association will not be able to secure a director in time.

In a fast game Newton Y. M. C. A. defeated the Page team of Roxbury, 5 to 2, on the Cabot park diamond Saturday afternoon. Features of the contest were the playing of LaRose of Newton at 3d and the hitting of Hanson and Martin.

Oct. 16th will be the 30th anniversary of the Association. All members and friends are invited to be present on that evening to help celebrate.

About Town

The warm weather Sunday brought a large number of canoeists to the Charles river. But one accident occurred, a canoe containing a man and a boy overturning in the afternoon opposite the Metropolitan police station at Auburndale. They were assisted ashore without difficulty and dried out in the station's drying rooms. There were no band concerts provided by the park commission but during the afternoon a band of evangelists held a song service on the city plot next to the Weston bridge at the end of Commonwealth avenue.

The Metropolitan park commission has nearly completed a roadway along the south side of the Charles river from Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, to Forest grove, Waltham. The thoroughfare runs thru a picturesque wooded country and is within sight of the river all the way. It will make a popular walk for visitors to the river another summer.

Real Estate

WHITE HOUSE COFFEE

In 1, 2 and 3 lb. airtight tin cans only—whole, ground or pulverized. Never sold in bulk.

It is the principal table beverage of thousands upon thousands of families who drink it every day of the year and find pleasure and solace in it.

IT SUITS WHEN OTHERS DISAPPOINT.

The reason is very easy to guess—it's because it's the very cream of the coffee crops, without adulteration or admixture to cheapen it.

It is most gratifying to learn that the Commonwealth is beginning to know and appreciate the worth of Lieut. Governor Draper. For years Mr. Draper has worked in season and out of season for the real interests of the state and nation. His work at the national Republican convention in 1896, resulting in the square stand taken by the party regarding the gold standard was but one of many incidents, indicating his high standard of political morals. Personally modest, his effective deeds have not reached the public light and he has not posed for popular applause. Real worth, however, will sooner or later be recognized and Mr. Draper's sound business judgment, and untiring energy for the public weal are beginning to reap their just reward.

Next week will bring the various political conventions the results of which have been fully prognosticated by the primaries of the present week. The re-nomination of Hon. Seward W. Jones of the Governor's council and the nomination of Mr. Charles S. Dennison for the Senate are foregone conclusions, while another Newton resident, Mr. Arnold Scott has an excellent chance to obtain the nomination for district attorney of Middlesex County. A recent resident of Newton, General Charles W. Bartlett will also be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, and that party would take a long step towards civic righteousness if it should choose our neighbor for that high office.

Now is the time for interested tax payers to interview the prospective candidates for the next board of aldermen and obtain their views on the question of reducing water rates.

Those election officers in ward six who took nearly six hours to count two hundred ballots are entitled to the prize for deliberateness.

Coffin--Rhodes

Miss Elsie Elida Rhodes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander F. Rhodes of Boylston street, Newton Centre, became the bride of Mr. Francis B. Coffin of that village last Wednesday evening. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock at the bride's home, Rev. Dr. Geo. T. Smart of the Newton Highlands Congregational church officiating. The house was effectively decorated with cut flowers and potted plants and the bridal party stood under an arch of asparagus ferns, hydrangeas and white asters.

The bride was gowned in white silk voile made over silk, trimmed with bands of taffeta and valences lace and wore a tulle veil caught up with valley lilies. Her shower bouquet was made of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her sister, Miss Bessie L. Rhodes was the bridesmaid, and wore blue acolian, trimmed with baby Irish lace and carried a bouquet of white pinks. The best man was Mr. Walter E. Langell of Newton Highlands. Miss Lillian Lindsay of Arlington, cousin of the bride played the Lohengrin wedding march. A reception followed the ceremony until 10.30 o'clock.

After a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Coffin will be at home after November 1st, at 575 Boylston street Newton Centre.

Mr. Peirce Dead

After a critical illness of about three weeks, J. Newton Peirce, aged 64, for many years a well known Boston business man, died last Friday at his home, 252 Franklin street, Newton.

He was the son of William and Ellen Prentiss Peirce, born in Andover, Mass., March 13, 1843.

When he was a boy his parents moved to Cambridge and he received his education in the public schools of that city. During his life he held many responsible positions and for a number of years previous to his death was the trusted book-keeper for Joel Goldthwait & Co. well known carpet dealers of Boston.

He was also well known in Masonic circles, being a Past Master of Henry Price Lodge of Charlestown, a member of Melrose Council, Waverly, Royal Arch Chapter of Newton, and Hugh De Payne Commandery of Knight's Templar of Melrose. He was a Past Grand of Bunker Hill Lodge I. O. O. F., Past Chief Patriarch of Bunker Hill Encampment of Charlestown, a member of the Hunnewell club and the Crow club, also a member of the Eliot Congregational church. He is survived by a widow and one son, Frederick N. Peirce and one brother Wm. P. Peirce of Melrose.

Funeral services were held from the house Monday afternoon and were largely attended by relatives, friends and former business associates of the deceased. Rev. H. Grant Person pastor of Eliot church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Newell C. Maynard, the assistant pastor. The Adelpi Quartet rendered the following hymns, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought", "Still, Still with Thee", "Passing out of the shadow" and "Now the loved one's task is over." The floral tributes were many and of beautiful designs. The interment was at Cambridge Cemetery, where the commitment service was read by the Rev. Mr. Person.

High School Notes

Clubs and Lodges

A grand whist party and dance, under the auspices of Triton Council, R. A., will be held in Mague hall, West Newton, Monday evening, October 14th. Whist will be played from 8.30 to 10.10, dancing following until 12 o'clock.

St. Bernard's Court, M. C. O. F. observed its 25th anniversary in Mague hall, West Newton, last Wednesday evening. The special guests were the high chief ranger, deputy high chief ranger and the high standing committee. The program consisted of the initiation of candidates, addresses, a supper and a musical program.

In Dennison hall, Newtonville, last Monday evening a meeting and entertainment was held under the auspices of Mt. Ida Council. The special guests were District Deputy Thomas V. B. Nye and suite of Agassiz Council, Cambridge. Addresses were made by the visiting members of the order and humorous selections were given by Mr. George B. Cutler.

Tremont Theatre—What must be admitted to be the greatest vaudeville bill ever offered to the people of New England will be presented by Klaw & Erlanger at the Tremont Theatre for the week beginning Monday matinee. At the head of the list stands Gus Elen, the famous coster and cockney comedian from London. Kara, the celebrated juggler from Germany, is another of the importations. Newhold and Carroll, novelty horizontal bar experts, are others. The Alexandroff troupe of Russian singers and dancers, five handsome girls and five men in whirlwind dances, is another phenomenal importation. Besides such astounding attractions as these, there will also be in the bill such stellar performers as Hope Booth, the Olympic Four, James McDonald, the De Faye Sisters, Fields and Ward, and a new lot of animated pictures. There are daily matinees at the Tremont.

Temperance Men Are Well Men

A prominent railroad official writing to The Railway World about the dependency of human lives upon the perfect eyesight of engineers, puts the case thus strongly:

A train running sixty miles an hour passes over more than eighty feet of distance in one second; at seventy miles per hour over more than 100 feet per second, and should it happen, as it doubtless might, that an engineer in charge of such a train running at such a speed was required to remove his spectacles to wipe the steam or mist from them, or should they become broken or fall off, and he be required to take time to get another pair and to put them on, for each second of time he was so occupied his train would be running at a high speed and it might pass signals or obstructions which the failure on his part to notice might be fatal; and because of this particular fact the company felt impelled, in the interest of safety only, to take the position it did take.

The very same arguments, so far as speed, signals and obstructions are concerned apply to the man whose vision is unreliable by reason of the action of alcohol upon the nerves.

Sir Nathaniel Barnaby, former constructor to the British navy, says: "I was only 12 years old when I took the total abstinence pledge. I was impressed with the idea of the good it would be to help others. But it is I myself who have got the most good. That pledge has been better for me than a gift of $100,000."

Strong drink is strong only for disease, destitution, demoralization and death.—Archdeacon Gorett.

SCHOOL BOARD

At the regular meeting of the School committee Wednesday evening, the estimated expenses for 1908 were considered and sent to the board of aldermen. The items are as follows: Salaries, $228,450; Incidentals, $21,000; Fuel, $17,000; Water, $1,700; conveyance of pupils, $2,100; evening schools, $3,000; special furnishings, $1,000; vacation schools $1,550; special increase in salaries, $13,690 and $10,000 for furnishing the new buildings now being constructed a total of $299,490 an increase of about $41,000 over the budget of 1907. The Committee decided to stand the entire expense of the vacation schools instead of having part of the cost defrayed by the ladies as heretofore. The item of $13,690 special increase in salaries is to provide for about a ten per cent increase of all teachers.

The superintendent reported a total enrollment of 6503, an increase of 44 over last year. He also stated informally that the medical inspection showed considerable admod growths in the pupils.

The superintendent was authorized to close the schools during the conference of the Middlesex school teachers if he saw fit, and he was also authorized to arrange a six months leave of absence with Headmaster E. C. Adams of the High school, who shall provide a substitute.

Help the Horse
No article is more useful about the stable than Mica Axle Grease. Put a little on the axles before you "hook up"—it will help the horse, and bring the load home quicker.

MICA AXLE GREASE

Greases will—better than any other grease. Coats the axle with a hard, smooth surface of powdered mica which reduces friction. Ask the dealer for Mica Axle Grease.

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre—Advanced Vaudeville as exemplified at the Tremont Theatre is now settled down to a smoothly running basis in America. Stars and acts of this country and stars and acts from Europe and the Orient are happily grouped into bills, and the bills are symmetrically blended into one great ensemble of picturesqueness, novelty and interest. Three weeks of running has put the massive machinery into perfect operation and Klaw & Erlanger's big new amusement enterprise is now upon a high plane of permanency in the favor of the people, and as a potent factor in the current history of the contemporary stage of America. True to advance promise, the bills are showing more of variety and of symmetry as each week comes. The work of adjustment of acts, that is steadily going on, has rounded the various programs into the most effective shape, so that, with advanced vaudeville collectively brought to the highest attainment, both in points of offering and arrangement of them into bills, it only remains now to pick from the new acts constantly being occurred, to strengthen and improve whenever the possibility may arise. Humorous stars, new to America but famous in Europe, have made debut in this country and with highest credit to themselves. The big ocean liners that come into New York port, are bringing in the imported stars each week, and they are being added right along to the advanced vaudeville schedule. Because it is the intention of Messrs Klaw & Erlanger to send only the very best to Boston, it is seldom possible to announce the complete bill in advance but patrons can be certain that they will see only the highest class acts in the world.

Grand Opera House—James J. Corbett, once heavyweight champion of the world, but now one of the foremost actors on the American stage, will appear at the Boston Grand Opera House next week in the comedy-drama production "The Burglar and the Lady." It is said to be by far the best vehicle Mr. Corbett has yet had, and affords him excellent opportunity for the display of the talents that have made him one of the best light comedians in the world. The story, while of a melodramatic tendency, is said to be notably free from cheap sensationalism and is characterized for its charm of originality and consistency. The plot, a pretty love story, is unwound to a conclusion without the author having resorted to any tricks of the modern play builder to incite and hold his audience's interest. Ned Danvers, burglar and ex-gentleman, tries to rob the house of a wealthy banker. He is discovered by the daughter of the owner of the house just about as he is to depart with his loot. He explains his presence by saying that he is a detective hunting for robbers. He gains the confidence of the girl, but there is another sleuth, Sherlock Holmes, who recognizes him, and the rest of the play is a battle of one man's wits against the others, with the play ending when the pseudo detective wins over his hunter and gets the girl because he has reformed. There will be the usual matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Orpheum Theatre—Studiously catering to the patrons of true and tried vaudeville, the Orpheum, for the week beginning Monday, Sept. 30, has a powerful bill of perfected vaudeville to offer. The distinguished English actor, William F. Hawtrey, and a supporting company of players, will be seen in the stirring dramatic playlet, "Compromised." Another sketch on the bill, a roaring farce, will be presented by Geo. Abel and company, entitled "Three of a Kind." Brimful of joyous comedy, this sketch promises to be one of the biggest successes of the year. Rossi's marvelous musical horse will fill an important position on the bill. This remarkable animal plays a variety of musical instruments, displaying human intelligence, and giving a performance that is startling in effect. Matthews and Ashley in their Chinatown sketch will contribute 20 minutes of hilarious fun, while prominent among the other fun makers are Morrow and Shelburg, and Hanson and Nelson. The Exposition Four, one of the cleverest musical aggregations in vaudeville, and the St. Onge brothers, sensational bicyclists, are others on the great bill. New moving pictures will be shown by the Kinetograph.

Keith's Theatre—The great shows of the past few weeks at Keith's will have a worthy successor in the program arranged for next week. Harry Bulger, the popular comedian, who made such a success in "Woodland," will head the list. He has a capital act made up largely of patter songs, of which he is by far the best singer on the American stage. Salerno, the wonderful European juggler who is acknowledged to be the greatest manipulator of small objects in the world, will exhibit his marvellous skill. He has a number of new tricks. One of the hits of the season has been scored by Emmet DeVoy and company, in Mr. DeVoy's fantastic comedietta, "In Dreamland," which will be seen for the first time in Boston. Julius Tannen, than whom no monologist is more popular in Boston, will return with a batch of new stories and songs. The remarkable swimming exhibition of The Finneys will be one of the most interesting features of the show. Another sight act that is bound to please is Mlle. Marguerite with her beautiful trained horse and cute pony. The Swor Brothers will give their amusing specialty, with its remarkably clever delineations of darky character. Gardner and Stoddard have a most entertaining mixture of good things, making a real vaudeville act of a kind seen all too seldom. "The Coal Strike" is the title of the funny farce to be played by Mr. and Mrs. Mary Murphy. Diamond and Smith, with songs illustrated by motion pictures; Toledo and Price, in a novel gymnastic act; Adeline Francis, a clever comedienne; McGrath and Paige, expert banjoists; Earle and Bartlett, in a droll sketch, and new pictures shown by the Kinetograph will complete the show.

Base Ball

The Stanleys defeated the Empire laundry machine company team, 8 to 2, at baseball Saturday on the Cabot park grounds. Connolly and Dunn were the battery for the Stanleys and Eastman and Shine were the battery for the Empires.

Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wentworth observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary last Friday evening with a largely attended reception at their home, 238 Lincoln street, Eliot. The house was profusely decorated with ferns, roses, pinks, and potted plants and Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth received their friends in a bower of green. They were assisted by their four daughters, Ethel, Edith, Madeline and Marjorie, all gowned in white. The guests were presented by a corps of ushers selected from the staff of Mr. Wentworth, who is the division commander of the Massachusetts department Sons of Veterans, Mr. Frederick G. Bower, Mr. Sherwin L. Cooke, Representative H. H. Ham and Mr. Guy L. Gott. About 150 were present from Newton and surrounding cities and among those noticed were Hon. and Mrs. Seward W. Jones, Gen. Chas. K. Darling, U. S. marshal and wife, Hon. and Mrs. Guy A. Ham, Mr. Geo. E. Brock, president Home Savings bank and wife, Mr. Frank G. Newhall, of the Market Bank, Brighton and wife, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. King, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Shaw, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gerlach and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wentworth.

A program was rendered by Bates orchestra and Dill catered.

Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth were remembered with numerous and beautiful gifts of silver.

Miss Teulon Dead

Miss Sapphira A. Teulon, daughter of the late Dr. William F. Teulon, and a resident of Newton for many years, died at her home on Eden avenue, West Newton, last Thursday after a long illness. She was in her 74th year. Deceased was an attendant at Channing church and was an active worker in its interests until failing health made it necessary for her to curtail her labors. Private services were held from the house Saturday, Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson officiating, and the burial was in the family lot in Newton Cemetery.

The Night School at Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston St., Boston, will open on Monday evening, October 7. The cost for tuition per month is $5.00. A Special Offer is made of $15, payable in advance, for the Entire Six Month's Course. It is not surprising that ambitious young men and women who wish to increase their chances for business success take advantage of this opportunity to enter the Bookkeeping or Shorthand and Typewriting classes at this well known school.

Hills-Bailey

The first of the fashionable weddings of the fall season took place last Saturday evening at Channing church, Newton, when Miss Beulah Bailey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bailey was wedded to Mr. Walter Earle Hills of Evanston, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Hills of Newton.

The beautiful church was decorated with green and white, and there was a large attendance notwithstanding the storm, when Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of the church performed the ceremony at eight o'clock. The bride was gowned in white satin messaline trimmed with Duchess lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Helen A. Edmunds, of Newton, was the maid of honor and wore Nile green silk mull, trimmed with white lace and ribbons. The bridesmaids were Miss Leah Bailey of Newton, Miss Evelyn H. Fitzell of Philadelphia, and Miss Marion E. Clapp of Ithaca, N. Y., gowned in white silk mull, trimmed with white Argyle lace and Nile green ribbons.

Mr. Henry Bigelow Hills of Boston, brother of the groom was the best man and the ushers were Messrs Ralph A. Stephenson, James O. Foss of Boston, Francis G. Ingraham of Newtonville, J. Harold Greenwood of West Newton, Ralph S. Howe of Providence and Austin W. Follett of Newton.

There was a largely attended reception at the Bailey residence on Surrey road, Newton, after the ceremony, the house being effectively decorated with white, pink and green. Mr. and Mrs. Hills were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Hills and the bridesmaids. Handley's orchestra rendered the musical program. Among the persons noted at the reception were Mrs. Sarah A. Clapp of Paw Paw, Mich., Dr. and Mrs. Archer T. Babcock, Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Frank E. Francisco, Chicago, Mrs. Lewis Bigelow, Mrs. John Howe, Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. Edward W. Howe, Newtonville, Mrs. Joel H. Hills, Newton, and Mr. Frank Bugbee of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Hills will make their home at Evanston, Ill.

No Shortage

That no action will be brought against any ice men in this city for alleged delivery of short weight cakes was determined last week as a result of a careful and thorough investigation made for several days by plain clothes policemen.

For about a week patrolmen in civilians' clothes have weighed many cakes delivered at various dwellings in various parts of the city in an effort to find out if short weight was being given, as was the case in several instances a year ago last summer. Chief Mitchell said that the investigation shows that drivers are giving the required weight. There were several instances, said he, where cakes 10 pounds over the required weight were delivered.

Mr. A. H. Handley's coming season with the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra Club promises to be an exceedingly busy one. Among the engagements already booked is a series of three choruses concerts with orchestra at Jordan Hall, Boston; the opening of the Boston Star Course at the Boston Y. M. C. A.; the opening concert of the course at the Worcester Mechanics' Association, Worcester; the music for the anniversary exercises in connection with the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Henry E. Converse Lodge, Malden, besides a large number of private musicales, receptions and weddings.

William F. Dodge, who made such a hit with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra last season will be connected with Mr. Handley in his work, which will undoubtedly be appreciated by all of his well wishers.

Boston's Newest Furniture Store

The Morse Furniture Company, located at 827 Washington Street, corner Common Street, Boston, Mass., the old stand of the Atkinson Furnishing Company, and which has been a furniture store almost half a century, was opened for business Sept. 3d.

The success of the new store is assured. The building is an ideal one for the business, there being an abundance of light and space where goods can be shown to the best possible advantage. The stock is all new and the best that this season's market affords. Lovers of the artistic will be well repaid by a visit.

In another part of this paper will be found a coupon which entitles lady visitors to a handsome art plate which makes a most beautiful souvenir.

CITY HALL NOTES

City Clerk Kingsbury has caused bulletin boards to be placed in each precinct of the city for posting city notices.

Mrs. Burnett Smith, known to story-readers as "Annie Swan," addressing a great gathering of reformers, testified that in a long, strenuous working life of over twenty years, with a working day of fifteen and sixteen hours, she had never on any single occasion taken the slightest help from the stimulus of alcohol, and in her very large acquaintance with her brothers and sisters of the pen—some of them the most distinguished men living in our land today—she had never known a single instance in which a piece of genuine literary work was ever done under the influence of alcohol as a stimulus.

The Nesmith Freak Shoe

The Nesmith Freak Shoe turns misery into absolute foot comfort. It is the only FREAK SHOE which has been a complete success. Made over a last which is the exact counterpart of the foot. Always roomy, restful, reliable.

Men's Shoes,
$4.00 to $10.00.

An unblemished foot is as rare as a perfect hand. Yet people don't inherit deformed feet. Corns, Bunions, and the like are caused by wearing ill-fitting shoes.

Ladies' Shoes,
$3.50 to $7.00.

How to Burn my Coal

My coal has such a strong and lasting body that it doesn't take much to make a hot fire, and some of it will not be entirely consumed in the first fire; but don't throw any of it away.

IT WILL ALL BURN

if you give it a second chance. Its quality is so good that there is almost no stone or slate and only a comparatively small ash.
